WASHINGTON, Tuesday, March 9.

Washington was again to-day in agonies of excitement, speculation, expectancy, comment and rumor on the varying Cabinet phases of the hour. Never was such bewilderment seen among politicians in and out of Congress. The most prominent party men generally knew and know the least about the situation, and sensation followed sensation with a rapidity as marvelous as it was absurd. Men were put up and knocked down again like ten-pins. The hotels were crowded with anxious seekers after information. Men, stopped each other in the streets, as in old war days, to inquire the news. All was uncertainty. Nothing was definite, nothing certain. The repeal of the act of 1789, the question of Mr. STEWART's resignation or of his assumption of the duties of the Treasury Department, the appointment of his successor, the change of the entire slate, as it is called, the claims of the West, of the North, of the South, of the East and of the Pacific slope, of this State or that, of the one interest or the other, were the topics which agitated men's minds. To which sun shall we turn? who is to have the interest? who is to be the power behind the throne? through what channel is all the patronage to flow? were the seemingly never-to-be-solved problems over which the legion of office-seekers and the small army of brokers and lobbyists puzzled their brains in fruitless efforts to solve the mystery.

The Capitol was supposed to be the place where the mysteries would be uncovered and the dark places made light. To the Capitol, therefore, everybody went. Many thousands were assembled there at noon, when both Houses of Congress were called to order for legislation, for which, in view of the uncertainties enveloping the Administration, they had no heart. Members gathered in groups on the floor and in the corridors to listen to and discuss the latest reports. Mr. STEWART's resignation of and Mr. STEWART's installation into office as Secretary were rumors a hundred times started, and as many times contradicted.

In the Senate several of the important bills which were killed during the last session, either for want of time or by the obstinacy of Ex-President JOHNSON, were again introduced or reported from Committees. SCHENCK's Public Credit bill came back from the Finance Committee favorably reported on of course. SHERMAN reported the bill supplementary to the act to provide a national currency, giving notice that he should call it up to-morrow. RAMSEY again brought forward the bill to facilitate telegraphic communication with Europe. MORTON had a resolution to prohibit sales of gold belonging to the Treasury. SHERMAN moved to discharge the Judiciary Committee from the consideration of the Tenure-of-Office act, in the hope of getting it before the Senate, but SUMNER objected, and it went over.

About 1 o'clock P. M. General PORTER, temporarily one of the President's Secretaries, appeared at the main door of the Chamber with a large official envelope in his hand. Here was something for which Congress and the people had been anxiously waiting—a message from the President. The formalities of presentation were soon gone through. The message was not confidential, and as the Vice-President laid it before the Senate by handing it to the Clerk to be read, there was a flutter of excitement in the galleries. It was very short and pointed, asking merely for permission to withdraw his first message to have the law of 1789 repealed.

Senators appeared a little puzzled at first as to what they should do with it. Mr. SUMNER moved the eternal laying on the table and printing, and this was all but agreed to when Mr. SPRAGUE moved that the request be complied with, which was the only proper course to be pursued.

This was all that occurred at the Capitol today, so far as the Cabinet complications were concerned. The Senate would appear to have met for nothing else, for it shortly after adjourned.

But elsewhere there were events occurring, and the phases of the Cabinet difficulty succeeded each other even more rapidly than the rumors of the street. The transfer proposition of Mr. STEWART, outlined in these dispatches last night, was rapidly put in shape and the best legal talent was asked to give judgment upon it. There was a degree of hearty approval from some and of pronounced disapproval from others, but Mr. STEWART deemed it his duty to lay the matter in all its details and to its fullest extent before the President for his judgment. Therefore at 1 o'clock this afternoon, in company with Judge HILTON, he called upon General GRANT and submitted to him, first, the proposition itself; second, a letter declining the position if the proposed transfer should be deemed inadequate to meet the requirements of the law.

After a full discussion of the difficulties of the position, in which General GRANT very emphatically expressed his deep regret that the embarrassments seemed insurmountable, he reluctantly elected to accept Mr. STEWART's declination, and at 2:30 o'clock the interview closed, the complications of the case, so far as Mr. STEWART was concerned, being at an end.

The following are the papers referred to:

This agreement, made and entered into this 9th day of March, A. D. 1869, between ALEXANDER T. STEWART, of the City and State of New-York, merchant, of the first part, and WILLIAM B. ASTOR, JAMES BROWN, WILLIAM E. DODGE, JAMES T. ROOSEVELT and HENRY HILTON, also of said City, parties of the second part.

Whereas, The said STEWART was, on the 5th day of March, 1869, duly nominated by the President of the United States to the office of Secretary of the Treasury, which nomination was on the same day confirmed by the Senate of the United States; and,

Whereas, The said Stewart is about to accept and enter upon the duties of said office; and,

Whereas, He has been and now is a member of the firm of Alexander T. Stewart & Co., is concerned and interested in carrying on the business of trade and commerce, both in the United States and in foreign countries;

Therefore, it is deemed to be requisite, under the provisions of the laws of the United States, that he, the said Stewart, before accepting the said appointment and entering upon the duties of said office, should cease to be directly or indirectly concerned or interested in the carrying on the business of trade or commerce, and to which provision and requirements of law he is desirous, in all respects, to conform;

Now, therefore, this agreement witnesseth, That the said party of the first part, for and in consideration of the premises and of the sum of one dollar, to him paid by the parties of the second part, the receipt whereof is hereby acknowledged, does hereby sell, assign, transfer and set over to the said parties of the second part, and to the survivors and survivor of them, all gains and profits which said party of the first part shall or may be entitled to as a member of the firm ALEXANDER T. STEWART & CO. arising from the said firm carrying on its trade or business, for and during the period of time said party of the first part shall occupy said office of Secretary of the Treasury; vesting in the said parties of the second part and the survivors or survivor of them, full and absolute right and title to said gains and profits and the disposition thereof, requesting and desiring, however, that they will faithfully apply and devote the same to such public or private charities, or charitable objects and purposes, as to them may seem best; but it being distinctly understood that this request shall in no wise affect the force and effect of the transfer hereby made.

Finally, the said party of the first part does hereby covenant and agree to make, execute and deliver such further assurances and writings as may be advised or devised by the parties of the second part to more fully or satisfactorily effectuate the objects or purposes herein expressed.

In witness thereof, the parties hereto have hereunto set their hands and seals, the day and year above written.

[SEAL.] ALEXANDER T. STEWART.

Sealed and delivered in the presence of NOAH DAVIS.

We, the undersigned parties of the second part to the foregoing instrument, hereby accept the transfer therein made, and do declare, that all moneys which we may derive or receive therefrom we will devote and faithfully apply to charitable uses and purposes.

Witness our hands, HENRY HILTON.

The following is Mr. STEWART's letter:

WASHINGTON, March 9, 1869.

To the President:

SIR: Appreciating the high honor conferred by your nomination and the unanimous confirmation by the Senate of myself to the office of Secretary of the Treasury, I regret that circumstances beyond our control compel me to decline. Could the difficulties presented by the provisions of the act of 1789, which, in organizing the Department of the Treasury, prohibit the Secretary from being directly or indirectly concerned or interested in carrying on the business of trade or commerce, be overcome by any reasonable sacrifice personal to myself, I would willingly make it. I would promptly transfer to the hands of gentlemen in whom the public have full confidence, every interest in the gains and profits that could possibly accrue to myself in the business of my house during my official term, to be applied to such public charities as their judgment should dictate, and have proposed and sought by the execution of appropriate instruments to accomplish that end. But serious differences of opinion have been expressed as to whether that course would satisfy the requirements of the law. Although I will not hesitate to make this appropriation provided it would enable me to accept the office, and thus unite my efforts with your own and those of other members of your Cabinet in restoring economy, honesty, and strict frugality in the administration of the Government, and lift as rapidly as practicable from the people the great burdens of taxation, debt and extravagance resting upon them, yet the business relations of my firm in its connections with others largely interested in their continuance are such that they cannot be severed summarily, nor can my interest in it be wholly and absolutely disposed of without producing great embarrassment and loss to those with whom I have been connected. I cannot consent to enter upon the administration of laws by any act or course that may be construed into a disregard or violation of law; and while, therefore, I regret that the plan proposed is deemed inadequate to relieve me from legal, and, as it seems to me, technical disabilities, I yield to the better judgment of others rather than seem to be willing to accept a position in disrespect of law.

In finally renewing the declination which was tendered at the outset of these objections, I repeat to you, Mr. President, my thanks for the honor done me in offering this high position, and assure you that you will have my earnest efforts to sustain your administration in carrying out the wise and salutary measures indicated by you on entering upon your office.

Sincerely your friend,
ALEXANDER T. STEWART.

The moment this decision was known, the anxiety and curiosity were at once turned toward the coming man. In consequence of the unmatured intentions of Sunday evening, every tongue at once echoed the name of BOUTWELL. It was claimed in addition that certain expressions of the President to-day pointed unmistakably to the nomination of Mr. BOUTWELL to-morrow. The Attorney-Generalship and Mr. HOAR were the only obstacles in the way. It would seem that he must decline, for there could not be two persons in the Cabinet from one State. Notwithstanding this the conviction became well nigh universal that Mr. BOUWELL will be nominated in any event, and this has been the conclusion arrived at by every person who has canvassed the matter.

Judge HOAR arrived this evening and called on General GRANT. What determination, if any was reached, has not transpired. General GRANT said to-night there would not be two members from Massachusetts, and, if this contingency is avoided, then Mr. BOUTWELL's name seems most positively fixed in his intentions. But, in the meantime, Mr. STEWART, who was going home in the morning, will delay for another day, and has an engagement with the President to-morrow morning. The understanding is, therefore, that there is no positive decision reached to-night. The interview with Mr. STEWART in the morning may possibly put a fresh complexion on affairs. General GRANT seems to have discovered that he is after all in a contest with the politicians. The difficulty will be settled finally to-morrow, without doubt.

LATER—MIDNIGHT.—This is the situation at this hour, and is reliable and positive.

JUDGE CHASE.

The statement in the Washington dispatches of one of your contemporaries to the effect that Chief Justice CHASE was among the best legal authority who had given opinions on the subject of Mr. STEWART's qualification as Secretary of the Treasury, does Mr. CHASE great injustice. The correspondent should have known that the giving of an opinion by the Chief Justice on any case likely to come before him, would subject him to impeachment and removal from office.

CABINET RECEPTIONS.

Secretary WASHBURNE reached the State Department this morning at 9:30 o'clock, and was for an hour engaged in the examination of his correspondence and in conference with Mr. HUNTER, Assistant Secretary. Visitors were then admitted, when the following members of Congress and others were granted interviews: Mr. EDWARD THORNTON, British Minister; Mr. HETZ, Consul-General of Switzerland; Senators DRAKE, CRAGIN and PATTERSON; Ex-Governor FENTON, of New-York, and Messrs. WASHBURN, of Indiana, MCCREERY, CHANDLER, BUTLER and MOORE, and Mr. MENARD, the colored contestant for a seat in Congress from Louisiana. The members of the House of Representatives called to offer their congratulations, and were received in a body in the reception-room, where the Secretary remained standing and shook hands with them severally as they passed in front of him. At 11:30 o'clock Mr. WASHBURNE left the State Department for the White House, which fact being announced by the messenger to the visitors in attendance in the ante-room, in a very few minutes the building was cleared of a large number who were present.

Secretary BORIE appeared at the White House this morning, and finally decided to accept his position, though it was with great reluctance that he has come to this conclusion, The oath of office was administered to him by Chief Justice CARTTER. At a subsequent hour he visited the Department, and, in company with Admiral PORTER, inspected the various bureaus. Admiral PORTER will remain here for a short time to assist the new Secretary in familiarizing himself with his duties. Secretary BORIE is fifty-eight years of age, about five feet six inches high, and wears short white whiskers, with moustache a shade darker than his whiskers. His hair is iron gray, and his eyes dark hazel, very bright and keen. He is very courteous in his manner, and easily approached. He bears a strong resemblance to Hon. ELISHA FOOTE, the Commissioner of Patents, and is very neat in his personal appearance. He was, it appears, entirely ignorant of any intention upon the part of the President to call him to a seat in the Cabinet until after the nominations were sent to the Senate on Friday. While at the Executive Mansion this morning he took a careful survey of the building, not having been there since the administration of General JACKSON, when he dined with the old hero.

General COX, the new Secretry of the Interior, arrived this morning and took rooms at the Ebbitt House. He called upon the President, but has not yet qualified. He will assume the duties of his position to-morrow.

Postmaster-General CRESSWELL entered formally upon his duties this morning. He was called upon by a large number of visitors, who extended their congratulations.

Hon. E. A. HOAR, the new Attorney-General, arrived to-night, and is stopping with his brother, Hon. GEO. F. HOAR, at the Rugby House. At a late hour this evening he visited General GRANT in company with Hon. W. M. EVARTS.

PROCEEDINGS IN THE HOUSE.

The House again reënacted the repeal of the Tenure-of-Office act this afternoon. General BUTLER put it through for the second time under the spur of the previous question. Mr. ELDRIDGE and other Democrats out of pure malice insisted upon the yeas and nays, which revealed the fact that about forty Republicans dodged the vote, whereas on the former occasion they voted no. The vote by which it passed was 143 yeas to 16 nays. Speaker BLAINE will announce the House Committees on Friday, to which time the House adjourned to-day.

The Speaker is having a difficult and delicate task, but all concede that his judgment and discretion, as well as his appreciation of the public interests, will be equal to the requirements.

ASSIGNMENTS AND APPOINTMENTS.

Some of the more prominent appointments in various sections have probably been agreed upon. Among those named to-day are W. B. TAYLOR, Postmaster at New-York; ANDREW G. CURTIN, Minister to St. Petersburg, vice C. M. CLAY; MONTGOMERY GIBBS, Consul to Paris, vice JOHN G. NICOLAY. It is reported that the appointment of a Minister to Portugal, and several other foreign appointments of more or less importance, will be sent in to the Senate this week.

WALTER H. SMITH, of Mount Vernon, has been appointed Solicitor of Internal Revenue, vice J. M. BINCKLEY, removed, and has entered on the duties of his office.

GEO. B. MCCARTEE, Esq., Chief of the Printing Division of the Treasury Department, who has been absent from Washington on account of bad health for some weeks, has returned to this city, and having reported to the Treasury Department, was directed to resume charge of that division.

AN ACT OF RESTITUTION.

OPWERS' statue of WASHINGTON, which was removed by General BUTLER from the State House at Baton Rouge, La., was to-day, at the request of Senator KELLOGG, taken from the Patent Office, where it had been placed, and shipped by express to Governor WARMOUTH, in order that it be replaced in its old position in Baton Rouge.

INFORMAL CABINET MEETING.

The members of the Cabinet met informally to-day. Present—Secretaries WASHBURNE, SCHOFIELD, BORIE, and Postmaster-General CRESSWELL. No business of importance was transacted.

Dispatches to the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Tuesday, March 9.

BUSINESS AT THE STATE DEPARTMENT.

The Department of State has received information that the Society for the Encouragement of Manufactories and Mechanical Industry in the Netherlands propose to arrange an International Exhibition of articles for daily household use at Utrecht, in the months of August and September, 1869. The principal object of this exhibition is to bring to the knowledge of the workmen such articles of industry of different countries at a low price as may combine usefulness with durability, so that he may be enabled by judicious economy to improve his condition.

The Secretary of State recently forwarded to the Treasury Department a copy of a letter from our Minister at London relative to a meeting held by the Chamber of Commerce at Newcastle-upon-Tyne, having for its effect the abolition of light dues imposed by the Government of Great Britain upon American and other vessels. Strong efforts are being made in certain prominent quarters in England for having these duties abolished, and having the cost transferred to the consolidated fund. The Committee from the Chamber of Commerce in its report expressed the hope that the American Minister would do what he could in behalf of the object; but Mr. JOHNSON did not feel at liberty to act in the matter until he heard from the State Department. The Secretary of State referred the letter to the Treasury Department for any suggestion that might be made in the matter.

The Secretary of State has forwarded to the Treasury Department a copy of a dispatch from the United States Consul at Teneriffe, relative to new port charges at the Canary Islands, which went into effect Jan. 1. Among the implied changes which are of interest to our countrymen, it is perceived that a Spanish register can be obtained for vessels of any size now, this privilege having been denied to vessels under 400 tons heretofore. Another article provides that a Spanish ship-owner can now sell his vessel to go under a foreign flag, which until now he could not do. All port charges are reduced to one which is only exacted when a vessel discharges merchandise to be introduced into the country. This charge is fifty cents per ton on all such merchandise, and all other charges are abolished. This charge, though more favorable to a vessel landing a small amount of cargo, is very onerous to one landing a large cargo. A case in point is that of the American ship Louis Walsh, which, at the date of the Consul's dispatch, was landing a cargo of guano from the Chincha Islands, This vessel must pay $1,100 charges, whereas, under the old régime, her charges would not have exceeded $150, It is perceived, also, that there is no distinction in favor of the Spanish flag, and that the unjust action of double charges on vessels coming from North or South America, over those from European ports, is done away with.

TRANSLATION OF THE INAUGURAL ADDRESS.

Mr. P. BUYNITZKY, of the Treasury Department, (the translator in Russian of BUCKLE's History of Civilization,) has made a translation of President GRANT's inaugural address and transmitted it to Mr. A. BUYNITZKY, publisher at St. Petersburg, with a request that he will communicate it to all the leading papers in St. Petersburg and Moscow.

THE SUPREME COURT.

The following cases were argued in the Supreme Court to-day:

No. 102.—Gibson vs. Choutaw. Argument concluded.

Mr. KELLEY introduced a bill for the coinage of nickel copper pieces of five cents and under. Referred to the Committee on Coinage.

RESOLUTIONS OFFERED.

Mr. BUTLER, of Massachusetts, asked leave to offer a resolution for a joint special committee of three members of the Senate and six of the House to consider all matters relating to Indian treaties, &c.

After some discussion Mr. RANDALL objected, and the resolution was not entertained.

Mr. BEAMAN, by unanimous consent, introduced a joint resolution to supply an omission in the Miscellaneous Appropriation bill by inserting an item of $200 to pay B. A. SHEPHERD, being the amount of a check in his favor drawn on the Assistant Treasurer for Indian supplies in June, 1859, but which was lost. Passed.

Mr. SCHENCK offered resolutions as follows, which were severally adopted: For a select committee of nine to provide for taking the next census; for a select joint committee on retrenchment, to be composed of four members of the House and four of the Senate; that the Committee on the Pacific Railroad shall hereafter consist of fourteen members and the Committee on Patents of nine members.

The House proceeded at 2 o'clock to call the States and Territories for bills and resolutions. Under the call bills and resolutions were introduced and disposed of as follows:

By Mr. BOUTWELL—A resolution for the appointment of a select committee on reconstruction, to consist of thirteen members, under the same rules and regulations as governed the proceedings of the Reconstruction Committee of the last Congress, and that all documents and resolutions before the last Committee be referred to it. Adopted—109 to 42.

REPEAL OF THE TENURE-OF-OFFICE BILL.

By Mr. BUTLER, of Massachusetts—A bill to repeal the Tenure-of-Office act of the 2d of March, 1867. He moved the previous question on its passage.

Mr. MAYNARD moved to adjourn. Negatived; only 15 affirmative votes.

The previous question was seconded, and the bill was passed. Yeas 143, nays 16.

The negative votes were given by Messrs. Arnell, Boles, Farnsworth, Ferris, Hotchkiss, Jenckes, Lawrence of Ohio, Maynard, Schenck, W. C. Smith of Vermont, Stokes, Taffee, Tilman, Ward, Whittemore and Willard—16.

The House then, at 2:40, adjourned until Friday next.

THE FULLERTON CASE.

The Official Correspondence on the Subject.

We publish below the remainder of the correspondence between the Attorney-General of the United States and District-Attorney COURTNEY, in regard to the trial of WM. FULLERTON, Esq., on the indictment found against him by the Grand Jury of this District. The first portion of the correspondence, which we published yesterday, closed with Mr. COURTNEY's letter of Feb. 9, in reply to Mr. EVARTS' letter of the 6th. That which we give below completes the case:

ATTORNEY-GENERAL EVARTS TO DISTRICT-ATTORNEY COURTNEY.

ATTORNEY-GENERAL'S OFFICE,
WASHINGTON, Feb. 10, 1869.

S. G. Courtney, Esq., United States Attorney, New-York:

SIR: I have the pleasure to acknowledge your letter of the 9th inst., relating to the pending case of the United States against William Fullerton and others, and am much obliged by the promptness of your attention. As soon as I receive the necessary documents from you, I shall endeavor to make such disposition of the subject submitted to me as shall seem right, and until then I shall, as you desire so be spared the time which will be taken from your other duties by a visit to Washington, reserve the question whether your personal presence here will be necessary.

You may be assured that the suggestions of your letter will receive due consideration, and I shall be happy at all times while the question is pending before me, to receive any communication from you bearing upon the matter that your relations to it, either personal or official, may prompt.

You speak of Mr. TRACY as being your "associate" in the case. I presume you refer to Mr. TRACY, United States Attorney for the Eastern District. As I am not aware of any designation of associate counsel by this Department, or of any application for such designation, you will please inform me upon what employment Mr. TRACY has been associated in the conduct of the prosecution.

I received, yesterday morning, a letter from Mr. JENKS, one of Mr. FULLERTON's counsel, relating to the case, to which I replied by telegraph that it "has been the occasion of certain instructions to the District-Attorney."

This, I presume, accounts for the knowlege and the application to you of defendant's counsel to which you refer.

Awaiting your further communication in answer to my letter of the 6th inst., I am your obedient servant,
WILLIAM M. EVARTS,
Attorney-General.

OFFICE OF THE DISTRICT-ATTORNEY
OF THE UNITED STATES FOR THE
SOUTHERN DISTRICT OF NEW-YORK,
NEW-YORK, Feb. 10, 1869.

Hon. Wm. M. Evarts, Attorney-General, Washington, D. C.:

SIR,—As I wrote you yesterday, I enclose you to-day, copy, indictment, and all the evidence before the Grand Jury in the case of Fullerton et al.

I also give you an Abstract of what can be proved in addition to the testimony before the Grand Jury.

I have the honor to be, Sir your obedient servant, SAMUEL G. COURTNEY, U. S. Att'y.

P. S.—Testimony of John A. Osborn, Robert Murray, Thomas E. Smith, James C. Gulick, John H. White, Samuel G. Courtney, Alexander Gropp, and Norman M. Finlay—copy, indictment and general statement enclosed herewith.

ATTORNEY-GENERAL'S OFFICE,
WASHINGTON, Feb. 11, 1869.

S. G. Courtney, Esq., United States Attorney, New-York:

SIR; I have received your letter of the 10th inst., with the indictment and evidence in the case of the United States against FULLERTON and others, and have already been able to make a general inspection of both. I find no reference in the indictment, or upon it, as to any statute or section of a statute in violation of which the offences are alleged to have been committed, except the statute of March 2, 1831, Section 2. It will save me some trouble in my examination of the law applicable to the alleged offences, if you will inform me whether that section of that statute is the only statutory provision against which you suppose the offences to have been committed. If there are any other statutory provisions against which you suppose an offence to have been committed, please give me a reference to the same.

In referring in my letter of yesterday to your mention of Mr. TRACY, as associate counsel with yourself in the case, I omitted to inquire whether any other counsel were associated with you, and if so, who they were and upon whose employment. I will be obliged by as early an answer to this letter as practicable.

I have the honor to be, vory respectfully, your obedient servant,
WM. M. EVARTS,
Attorney-General.

OFFICE OF THE DISTRICT-ATTORNEY
OF THE UNITED STATES FOR THE
SOUTHERN DISTRICT OF NEW-YORK,
NEW-YORK, Feb. 13, 1869.

Hon. Wm. M. Evarts, Attorney-General:

SIR: I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letters of the 10th and 11th instant, relating to the case of the United States vs. Fullerton and others, and making inquiry as to the statutes to which the indictment relates. There are nine counts, all founded upon the thirtieth section of the act of March 2, 1867, entitled "An act to amend existing laws relating to Internal Revenue," &c., and each count charges a conspiracy on the part of the defendants to commit a certain offence against the United States. The offence charged in the first and second counts is prohibited by the twenty-sixth section of the act of March 2, 1867. The offence set forth in the third count is prohibited by the act of March 2, 1831, to which you allude in your letter; that in the fourth, fifth and sixth counts by the sixty-second section of act of July 13, 1866, entitled "An act to reduce internal taxation," &c.; that in counts seven, eight and nine by the one hundred and seventy-ninth section of the act of June 30, 1864, entitled "An act to provide internal revenue," &c., as amended by the act of July 13, 1866.

Before the indictment in the case under consideration was filed, the fact that it was about to be filed was known to some of the defendants, and I received information (which proved afterward to be correct) that they would be represented by many and able counsel. I accordingly requested permission from the Commissioner of Internal Revenue to associate some person with myself in the prosecution. Permission was accorded me on the 23d day of November, the day on which the indictment was filed, and in accordance therewith I selected Mr. TRACY, who is my only associate.

I have the honor to be, Sir, your obedient servant,
SAMUEL G. COURTNEY,
United States Attorney.

ATTORNEY-GENERAL'S OFFICE,
WASHINGTON, Feb. 16, 1869.

S. G. Courtney, United States Attorney, New-York:

SIR: In my letter of the 6th inst., asking from you certain information concerning the prosecution against WM. FULLERTON and others, I desired, among other things, a copy "of the depositions or other evidence upon which the complaint was brought to your notice." I do not observe any such paper among those sent to me, nor any reference to this precise matter in your letters. If any deposition or other formal complaint was laid before you, I beg that you will send me a copy of all such papers without delay, and also inform me who the complainant or complainants in this case are, and at what time and in what form and upon what evidence the complaint was made.

I have the honor to be, very respectfully, your obedient servant,
WM. M. EVARTS,
Attorney-General.

OFFICE OF THE DISTRICT-ATTORNEY OF THE
UNITED STATES FOR THE SOUTHERN DISTRICT OF NEW-YORK.
NEW-YORK, Feb. 17, 1869.

Hon. William M. Evarts, Attorney-General:

SIR: I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 16th inst., in which you reiterate the request contained in your former communication of the 6th inst., for a copy of the "depositions or other evidence upon which the complaint (in the case of the United States vs. Fullerton et al.,) was brought to your (my) notice." You also request me to inform you "who the complainant or complainants in this case are, and at what time, and in what form, and upon what evidence the complaint was made." In the full statement of the case, which I made to you on the 9th instant, I omitted to say that there was no formal complaint, nor were depositions taken prior to the time of the presentation of the case to the Grand Jury. The evidence taken before them I have already reported to you. If the commission of an offence within this district is brought to the notice of the District-Attorney when the Grand Jury is not in session, it is his practice to cause a sworn complaint to be made, and to procure thereon a commissioner's warrant. But it has been his common practice, when the Grand Jury are in session, to allow witnesses to go before them and tell their story without formal complaint. That course was adopted in the case under consideration. The charge against these defendants was brought to my notice first by THOMAS E. SMITH, sometime in October, between 9th and 20th, and afterward by Collector BAILEY and Mr. SMITH, who then gave me in detail the circumstances attending the matter set out in the indictment.

I think the first examination before the Grand Jury was about the 9th of November. It continued off and on until about the 23d of November.

I have the honor to be, your obedient servant,
SAMUEL G. COURTNEY,
United States Attorney.

ATTORNEY-GENERAL'S OFFICE,
WASHINGTON, March 3, 1869.

S. G. Courtney, Esq., United States Attorney, New York:

SIR: I have given careful attention to the case of the United States against WILLIAM FULLERTON and others, to which your notice was first drawn by me in my letter of the 6th of February last, and which has formed the subject of correspondence since, and of a personal interview during your recent visit to Washington. A careful examination of the indictment and of the evidence in the light of the provisions of the statutes under which the Government proposed to bring the criminal offence charged, satisfied me that, although I should have entertained very strong doubts, as prosecuting officer, of the propriety of this prosecution, so far certainly as Mr. FULLERTON is concerned, yet a proper adherence to the distinction between supervising the action of District-Attorneys and myself undertaking to execute their duties, made it suitable that the indictment already found upon the approval of your judgment, should be left either to be judicially disposed of, or to the discretion of yourself or any successor in your office as to its further prosecution. In leaving the matter, as I do, in this position, I will only further remark that there is no charge or accusation which is open to so many opportunities of perversion and injustice as the charge of conspiracy. Accordingly it should only be upon the most satisfactory evidence, both in quality and amount, and upon the most impartial estimate of its force and effect, that a prosecuting officer should expose to the perils of this accusation, persons of reputable character whose relations to the principal offenders may admit of an honest construction. The very association in a common indictment is itself a very serious injury, whatever may be the result of the ultimate exploration of the case; and the principles of evidence which are accepted, and necessarily accepted, in the conduct of the trial, are such as to expose the defendants to damnatory conclusions in the public judgment, and even in the verdict of the jury upon a mere confusion of the evidence applicable to their several conduct and their several admissions—a peril which an intelligent and judicious prosecuting officer cannot too sedulously guard against.

Having determined that the prosecution should not be discontinued, I found no reason to think that any prejudice to the adequate presentation of the case on the part of the Government could arise from the postponement of the trial from the term at which the indictment was found to the following Circuit. Although your letter of the 9th of February last seems to press the importance of a speedy trial upon my attention, yet no particular circumstances in regard to the accessibility or preservation of evidence were suggested, and none, so far as I know or understand, exist that should bear upon this question of a postponement. In favor of the adjournment of the case until the April Circuit, I found what had great weight with me in my estimate of the difficulty and responsibility of the trial, from the nature of the charges, and of the evidence by which they might be supported, that at the April Circuit his Honor Judge NELSON will be able to preside, with Judge BLATCHFORD or Judge BENEDICT, as the convenience of their respective districts might suggest, and thus, besides the usual advantages recognized from the presence of two Judges upon the Circuit, the Court, upon the trial, would be less affected, either in fact or in public esteem, by the irritations and controversies which have filled so much space in the public prints, and in frequent discussions in the Court room, since the commencement of the conflict between Mr. FULLERTON and yourself and other public officers in New-York. Nor have I deemed it an unimportant consideration, that not improbably, at the April Circuit, the conduct of the trial might be in the hands of a prosecuting officer who would not have participated in any personal relations with the accused or with the subject of the accusation or of his own office. Indeed I have no reason to doubt, that it would be more agreeable to you personally, if it could be brought about without any desertion of your official duty, to be relieved from the management of the prosecution, so closely connected, as respects the principal defendant, with personal causes of offence against him. Upon the whole, then, my direction in the case is, that it shall not be called for trial until the approaching April circuit, and then only before a full Bench of the Court, in which the Circuit Judge and the District Judge shall both sit. The observation of your letter of the 9th of January last, in which you express your inability "to perceive how the relations of Mr. FULLERTON to the subject of the accusation against him in anywise differ from the relations of any other persons now under indictment, to the subject of the accusations against them, and your inability to discover any peculiarity in his relations to the public officers who have the conduct of the prosecution, which would seem to demand any special intervention in his behalf," have not escaped my attention. All the circumstances of this complaint and its prosecution, as well as the history of the presentation by Mr. FULLERTON of complaints against yourself and Marshal MURRAY, with a view of obtaining your, and his suspension from office, and an accusation to the Senate against you and him of misconduct in office and of crime, are as well known to you as they are to me. If, in these facts, you appreciate no features of distinction between the circumstances of the present prosecution, conducted by yourself as the prosecuting officer, and by Mr. MURRAY as the Marshal of the district, and the ordinary relations of public officers toward criminals in the public administration of justice for offences in which they have no personal relations to the subject or the offenders, I can hardly hope that any exposition of the features of the case that have induced me to feel and insist upon this distinction, would approve itself to your judgment. I also notice your observations upon a proposition contained in my letter of the 20th of December ult., in which I declined to act as your representative in obtaining an order in the cause from Mr. Justice NELSON. You were so good as to approve of the position which I there assumed, and it certainly cannot be necessary for me to point out the distinction between the action which I have taken in this case under my statutory authority and obligation in the supervision of the conduct of District Attorneys in their office, and personal action on my part in the management of prosecutions with the Court before which they are pending. Whatever may be the result with this case, I feel that my present disposition of it, whether the prosecution shall be sustained or shall fail, accords with the highest interest of a circumspect and impartial administration of the public justice.

I have the honor to be, very respectfully, your obedient servant,
WM. M. EVARTS, Attorney-General.

OFFICE OF THE DISTRICT-ATTORNEY
OF THE UNITED STATES FOR THE
SOUTHERN DISTRICT OF NEW-YORK,
NEW-YORK, March 4, 1869.

Hon. Wm. M. Evarts, Attorney-General:

SIR: I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 3d inst., relating to the case of the United States vs. WILLIAM FULLERTON and others, and directing that its trial be postponed until the third Monday of April—the April term of the Circuit Court. Even without your intervention, (which first occurred on the 6th of February, at which time, after repeated delays and excuses for not proceeding to trial by the defendants, the case was ready for trial before a Court and jury then in session, and which suspended until the final determination contained in your letter of yesterday, my official action,) this delay would now be unavoidable, as the Circuit Court has adjourned since you reqired the case to be submitted to you for your consideration, and will not sit again until April or May. I hope that events will prove the correctness of your opinion, that no prejudice to the adequate prosecution of the case on the part of the Government will arise from the postponement of the trial as ordered by you. You remarked that although I pressed the importance of a speedy trial, I "suggested no circumstances in regard to accessibility or preservation of evidence that bore upon the question of postponement." It did not seem to me necessary, neither did you require of me any such information. It was certainly incumbent upon the accused to show the propriety of postponement, rather than upon me to establish the necessity for immediate action. I had always believed that the Court was the proper tribunal to determine, upon affidavits, the propriety and justice of a postponement of a trial. If I had supposed that you required any proof, or had the remotest intimation been given to me that you required any reasons, why a speedy trial in the case should be had, I would have furnished you an abundance. It cannot have escaped your notice, however, that if the defendants had assented to that speedy trial, for which at first they professed to be desirous, the Government could have availed itself of the testimony of THOMAS E. SMITH, and that the accused was subsequently enabled to procure a long delay on account of that gentleman's serious illness. In the event which you anticipate, of my retirement from office before the April Term of the Circuit Court. I shall, of course, be relieved from the management of the prosecution. I exceedingly regret that, in that event, the action of my successor in office must be supervised by some Attorney-General who is entirely unfamiliar with the facts of the case and the peculiar circumstances connected with its prosecution. In reference to your direction, that the case shall not be called until such time as the Presiding Judge of the circuit shall sit in this district for the trial of criminal causes, I beg leave to make a suggestion. I understand that Judge NELSON has announced his unwillingness to try any criminal cases at all, and, if so, the postponement which you direct would be equivalent to an abandonment of the prosecution. I am very decided in my conviction that the case can be tried with entire partiality before Judge BENEDICT, duly assigned to try the criminal cases, and on whose calendar the case has been placed by order of Judge NELSON. The "irritations and controversies" to which you allude "which have filled so much space in the public prints, and in frequent discussions in the Court room," have not, I am confident, affected his Honor, either in "fact" or in "public esteem." I accordingly hope that your order in this respect may be modified. Permit me in this connection to call your attention to the opinion of Judge NELSON, which I again inclose, believing that the former copy I sent might have escaped your observation. In alluding to Mr. FULLERTON's recent charges against myself you say that they are as well known to me as to you, and that

"If, in the facts, I appreciate no features of distinction between the circumstances of the present prosecution, conducted by yourself as prosecuting officer, and by Mr. MURRAY, as Marshal of the district, and the ordinary relations of public officers toward criminals in the public administration of justice for offences in which they have no personal relations to the subject or the offenders, I can hardly hope that any exposition of the features of the case that have induced me to feel and insist upon this distinction would approve itself to your judgment."

You will observe by reference to the quotation in my letter, upon which you make the comment above-mentioned, that I have not ignored the fact, that the relations between Mr. FULLERTON and myself differ from the ordinary relation of a prosecuting officer to persons charged with crime. I only said there was no such peculiarity in our relations as would seem to demand any "special intervention" in his behalf. I have seen no reason as yet, even in the light of your letter, to change the views I have hitherto expressed on this subject. In referring to your letter of the 20th December last, you state that it certainly cannot be necessary for you to point out the distinction between the recent action you have taken in this case and the action which I desired you to take for procuring an order from Judge NELSON to set aside the stay of proceedings obtained by Mr. FULLERTON on the 16th of December.

The difference or "distinction" between an interference for the purpose of hastening, and one which evidently delays a trial, is certainly obvious. There is no need of argument to demonstrate it, and you will observe, by reference to my letter of the 9th ult., I did not do you the injustice of instituting a comparison. I cordially assent to the views which you express as to the grave character of the charge of conspiracy, and as to the injustice of exposing persons of "reputable character" to the perils of this accusation except upon the most satisfactory evidence. If the evidence in the present case had not seemed to me satisfactory at the time the proceedings were commenced, I should not have commenced them; and I certainly should wish to abandon them now, if my opinion had suffered any change. The Grand Jury, with great unanimity, considered the evidence as to all the alleged offenders, "satisfactory" not only in "quality," but in "amount." The course which the defendants have pursued from the day the indictment was filed to the present time, shows conclusively that in their estimation the evidence is entirely "satisfactory;" for if they were innocent, they would be sure to welcome a judicial investigation as the only effective means of relieving them from the imputation of guilt which now attaches to them.

I have the honor to be, sir, your obedient servant,
SAMUEL G. COURTNEY,
United States Attorney.

COPY OF JUDGE NELSON'S OPINION REFERRED TO.

United States Circuit Court, Southern District of New-York.—The United States vs. William Fullerton.—Application to postpone trial until the Circuit Judge can sit in the trial with the District Judge.

NELSON, C. J.—This is an application on the part of the defendant to postpone the trial of the cause until the Circuit Judge can sit in the Circuit with the District Judge, who is now holding it, on the ground that difficult and important questions of law will arise on the trial, so that if a division of opinion should occur between the Judges, the point or points could be certified to the Supreme Court under the act of 29th April, 1802, the only mode of sending questions of law arising on the trial of criminal cases to this Court for revision. This practice at the Circuit has heretofore been confined, with few exceptions, to the trial of capital cases, and even in those I do not now recollect an instance when any division of opinion occurred on the trial or certificate of a question to the Supreme Court. Generally speaking, the motion in arrest of judgment, or for a new trial, which are liberally indulged, affords sufficient security against errors or mistakes at the trial. A division of opinion may be certified on a motion in arrest of judgment, (11 Wh., 417,) though it cannot on the motion for a new trial. But where there is a difference of opinion on a motion for a new trial, such a direction will be given to the case as will enable the defendant to obtain a certificate of the division under the statute. A new trial will be granted, and the cause again submitted to the jury in the presence of the two Judges, and the question or questions regularly certified. This has occurred in a very few instances in the Northern and also in the Southern District of New-York, and indeed, as far as I can remember, in every case where a serious and well-grounded difference existed.

We think, under these guards and securities against error in the trial of current and ordinary offences against the laws, the contingency or possibility of a difference of opinion between the two Judges in the trial does not present a case that would justify us in interfering with the trial of the cause in the usual way, and in conformity to the practice in criminal cases.

The temporary rule to stay the trial is therefore set aside, and the cause restored or placed on Judge BENEDICT's calendar.

Ex-Secretary Seward at Home.

From the Auburn News, March 8.

Our esteemed townsman, Hon. WM. H. SEWARD, arrived here yesterday morning at 8:30 o'clock. He was accompanied by Judge GOODRICH, American Consul at Brussels. Twenty years ago, when Secretary SEWARD went to Washington as one of the Senators from this State, to enter upon the long public life which has terminated, he was accompanied by Mr. GOODRICH. Learning that his life-long friend was to return to his home, the Judge, who was at St. Paul, Minnesota, proceeded to Washington for the express purpose of making the journey with him.

The Advertiser says: Governor SEWARD is in excellent health and spirits. He says he is not so badly worn with care and labor as many have imagined, and that although he desires rest, he is not so greatly in need of it as he has been in former times after many laborious efforts in his profession. He speaks of his diplomatic correspondence as having been entirely agreeable and easy

UNITED STATES COMMISSIONERS' COURT—EASTERN DISTRICT.

Before Commissioner Jones.

THE DRAWBACK FRAUDS.

The examination in the drawback fraud case was resumed yesterday.

Jerome M. Reisenbergher was recalled to testify as to the manner of making up the fraudulent documents. Claim 45,895 was handed to him, the certificate for taxes paid having been signed by a New-Hampshire collector; it was a genuine paper, as were also all the certificates to No. 7, which was signed by L. L. Laidlaw, which was procured by Dickinson on fraudulent bonds; the signature witness believed was genuine, though he had not seen Laidlaw sign it; the manifests attached to the certificates had been made up by Korn and witness, and were not genuine; the manifests were afterward certified as being correct, by Theriot; the firm by whom the goods were sworn to as having been exported was a fictitious one; the money for that claim was received by Mr. Frear, who handed it to Korn, and it was divided between Wellwood, Korn and witness, who received one-third each after paying expenses; Dickinson took a check for $150 to Laidlaw; Theriot also received an allowance; Frear received ten per cent. of the whole amount; that was all the money paid out as expenses in getting the claim through. Claim No. 51,190 was then handed to the witness, who testified that Whimster gave it to him in November, 1867, to take to Laidlaw; it was one of the four he had spoken of at his previous examination; Whimster told him he was to get a share of it by getting a certificate from Laidlaw; Whimster said he was going to send it to Washington; witness understood from the first that it was all bogus; the certificate that the taxes had been paid was in the handwriting of Wilson; the manifest was signed by Theriot, and the affidavit as to whom the claim was made was signed by Geo. R. Wilson, who he judged was a fictitious party. He had received the papers on the corner of Broad-street and Exchange-place, and took them over to Laidlaw; think he saw Laidlaw in La Fiuras' saloon; Laidlaw signed the paper on a desk in that saloon; never saw Laidlaw sign any papers in the Collector's office; saw him sign papers on several occasions, but in no case did he see him sign any in the Collector's office; witness received about twenty-five per cent. of the amount of the claim; it was paid by Whimster about two weeks after witness had procured the signature of Laidlaw; the seal on the papers was put on in the Collector's office; after Laidlaw had signed the paper he took it away with him for the purpose of getting the seal put on; he was absent only a few minutes; Whimster said he had to pay either forty or fifty per cent. to other parties in Washington and elsewhere; Theriot was promised a percentage, but he was not certain whether it was paid to him or not. Claim No. 53,587 being handed to the witness, he testified that it had been made up by himself; he filled up the blanks, and the signatures were furnished by Theriot and Wilson; Whimster procured the certificate of the Superintendent of Exports; the goods were exported, the official signatures on the papers were all genuine, the affidavit was drawn up by a man whom witness employed for the purpose; the name McGregor signed to it was not genuine; the man's name was, he thought, Bassagalloupe, or something like that; the check was received by witness, who handed it to Whimster, by whom it was cashed, who then handed either twenty-five or thirty per cent. of the whole amount to witness after paying expenses; had several conversations with Whimster about the claims; they all knew the claims were bogus; they commenced making up claims in September, 1867, and went on doing so until September, 1868. Claim No. 46,927 was the next one handed to witness, who testified that it was made up by Dickinson and himself in Broad-street; Dickinson produced the certificate from the Second Collection District; the share of witness would have been $1,080, but Frear ran away with the money; claim No. 56,287 had the blank forms filled up by Wilson; the affidavit of the claimant was also filled up by Wilson, but witness was unable to identify the signature; the signature to the certificate that the goods had been shipped was that of Thomas J. Barr, one of the Custom-house officers.

Cross-examined—Witness had made some of the signatures, and had sent Mr. Dickinson to swear to some of the affidavits; they were false affidavits.

What papers did you sign?

Witness—I refuse to answer that question, as it might criminate myself, unless I am specially exempted from all risk.

Counsel—Well, we understand you have been exempted.

Oh, no, I don't understand any such thing as that.

Mr. Goldsmith, counsel for Theriot, asked the District Attorney about what amount he supposed was was represented by the bogus claims.

The District-Attorney—About $700,000.

Counsel to witness—How much did Theriot receive? A.—I paid him between $700 and $800 in about eighteen months; I have been in New-York about nineteen years; I came from the City of Oporto; I was quite a youth when I came here; I think I was born in Gibraltar, but cannot say for certain; I had been in my father's office in Gibraltar; he was a merchant there; I was between five and ten years of age when I left Gibraltar; when I first came to New-York I went to Phillip N. Searles as clerk; I remained there for about two years and then went as supercargo of a ship to Cuba; on returning I went as clerk to John A. Machito, a shipping merchant; after being with him for some time I left and engaged in the shipping business; that was between 1853 and 1857; after that I went to the coast of Africa as supercargo in the brig Helen, Captain Lynn; I do not know the character of the cargo, but it was of a general nature, consisting of tobacco, cloth, fish and other articles; I did not see any manacles or handcuffs on board; I was left at the Bay of Pulico; I was left there to take charge of a factory, to buy palm oil; I was there two or three years, and then returned home by way of the coast; called at Madeira, the Canary Islands, and then on to Liverpool, where I remained for a short time, and got back to New-York in 1858 or 1859, I think; I have remained here ever since; on my return I was in the tobacco business at No. 140 Watt-street; I was one of the proprietors; Mr. Jones was associated with me; I was in that business about a year and a half, and then went to Cedar-street, and started on my own hook at No. 30 Cedar-street; I bought and shipped goods for Cuba and Mexico; in about 1863 I went to No. 83 Cedar-street, in the same business where the firm was, Sanders & Rosenbergh, and after three years the firm was dissolved, and I went to No. 51 Cedar-street; I did not do anything for some time until I met W. W. Russell, who asked me whether I had collected my drawback claims on goods I had shipped; I said "No"; when he took me to No. 165 Pearl-street, to the office of Mr. Caldwell, a broker, who was to collect my claims, for which I was to allow him fifty per cent.; it was honest, and the first intimation I had about collecting drawback claims was from Mr. Russell; through Mr. Caldwell I collected about $4,000 on account of my firm; I have been in the same business ever since; the first collections were honest, but there has been a slight discrepancy in the latter part.

Q.—Who first led you into temptation? A.—That I must refuse to answer, on account of some parties who are not yet arrested, as I have received certain assurances from Mr. Tracy if I do so and so.

The witness was sustained in his objection, and stated that it was not one of the defendants then present.

Q.—What assurances have you received? A.—I received assurances that I would not be prosecuted for my connection with these claims, provided I appeared as a witness.

Q.—You received that assurance from the Government? A.—Yes, Sir. The first of these defendants that I became acquainted with was Korn; he was a clerk in Caldwell's office; Korn is a young man, younger than I am several years; I offered to introduce Korn to some man in Washington who would put the claims through; introduced him to Frear; during an interview at Frear's house in Washington Korn was never requested to leave the room; he was present at all our interviews. The next one of the defendants I became acquainted with was Dickinson, and then with Whimster; I have been sued and arrested for debt on a charge of fraud; I did not run away or make a fight; I have lived at one hotel for six years; I have no idea how much money I have made out of these transactions; I spent it as fast as I got it; I suppose I have made a little over $25,000; I have signed some of the papers; (witness refused to point out which papers he had signed unless so ordered by the Court;) I have some doubt as to whether I did sign any papers; I was not spoken to about appearing as a witness in this case; I came without being asked to do so, and the way it happened was this: I was told by a man that there was something going on in this case; Mr. Green, clerk in the office of the Superintendent of Exports, had a lot of uncanceled bonds, and he was trying to go on with this case for the Government. I kept a place up town then, a rum-shop, and he came there several times, and stated that there were several bonds of mine in the office that ought to be canceled, and I told him to let them alone, and he came again several times and told me he was going to get an order from Mr. McCulloch to exempt certain parties. Afterward he came and said something was going on, he had heard so from Colonel Woods, detective, and I came down to Colonel Hays' office and asked him to find out all about it; he told me there was something going on, and advised me to be a witness, so I came over to Mr. Tracy's office and found the papers had been in his possession for thirteen days; I did not know of any seals having been prepared by our Association; we came over to get our certificates signed, because the men looked as though they would take money; I have seen Laidlaw sign certificates; I can point out papers which have been signed by Dickinson; he signed papers as G. M. Thompson, J. F. Rogers and others.

Wm W. Russell testified as follows: I know Korn, Reisenbergher and Laidlaw; I had an interest in the drawback claims, having been promised a commission by Korn, Reisenbergher, and of Wellwood claims for drawback. Claim No. 46,991 was shown to the witness, who recognized his signature on the special manifest and the affidavit. The merchandise as certified to having been shipped by me was never shipped; I signed the manifest and the affidavit at the request of Mr. Korn; he told me the goods had been shipped, and that it was all right; he promised to give me five per cent. for signing the papers; I don't think he ever paid me the money; he may have given me $5, or something of that sort; I may have signed other papers for them under similar circumstances; I exported some goods, I think, in 1866, but not any of these.

Cross-examination—I introduced Mr. Reisenbergher to Mr. Caldwell, as I knew he had shipped a great many goods to Havana; I never heard that Reisenbergher was a blockade runner during the war; I never heard him boast about it or about the profits he made out of the slave trade; when I signed the certificates I had no idea but that all was perfectly right; either Mr. Noyes or Mr. Reisenbergher spoke to me about there being some papers in the District-Attorney's office, and when I came to look at them I was subpœnaed to attend as a witness in the case. I received altogether about $50 or $60 for signing the papers; I have had no assurance that I should not be prosecuted for fraud, except that Mr. Reisenbergher has, I think, told me that if I came forward as a witness I should not be prosecuted for fraud; I am a merchant, but failed in 1857; I have been engaged in loading ships for Cuba until lately, when the revolution interfered with my business; I live at Ryerson-street, Brooklyn; have lived there about one month; before that time I lived on Staten Island; I have no place of business, and my letters are addressed to the Post Office, New-York; I signed some of these papers at the request or solicitation of Mr. Reisenbergher; if he had not asked me I should not have signed them; I have signed bonds and manifests at the same time; the whole set of papers altogether; I used to drop in at their office once in a while and sign their papers for them; they said it was all right, that I should not have any trouble, and I was to have five per cent. commission when the money was received from Washington.

At this point the Assistant District-Attorney moved an adjournment, but was unable to make any stipulations that the case should not be sent before the Grand Jury, which will be empaneled in the United States Circuit Court next week. The Commissioner said that if the examination was to go on before him, it would be necessary for counsel and the District Attorney to understand that the case could not be given to the Grand Jury until it was disposed of by him.

The examination was then adjourned until to-morrow.

UNITED STATES COMMISSIONERS' OFFICE.

Before Commissioner Osborn.

The Froud case was called up, but the counsel for the defence being absent, another adjournment took place.

EMBEZZLING LETTERS.

The Commissioner issued a warrant for the arrest of Charles A. Willard, a Post Office Clerk, charged with stealing letters, on the affidavit of Special Agent Gaylor.

SUPREME COURT—GENERAL TERM—MARCH 9.

Before Presiding Justice Clerke and Judges Sutherland and Barnard.

IS THERE SUCH A THING AS THE WRIT OF NE EXEAT IN THIS STATE?

Breck, respondent, vs. Smith, appellant.—This was an appeal from an order made at Special Term. The principal point involved was the question whether we have such a writ as that of ne exeat. In deciding the question, Judge SUTHERLAND says: "The codifiers may have intended to abolish the writ of ne exeat, but I do not think they succeeded in doing so. I suppose there never has been, or ever will be, a codifier, who, at the close of his work, does not think that he has done many things that he has not done, and who has not done many things that he did not intend to do."

After citing numerous authorities the learned Judge comes to the conclusion that the writ of ne exeat is in full force. Judge BARNARD concurs in the conclusions to which Judge SUTHERLAND has arrived.

A dissenting opinion was delivered by presiding Justice CLERKE, who says, "the writ of ne exeat was expressly abolished by section 178 of the Code." The language of the section is, "No person shall be arrested in a civil action except as prescribed in this act." Section 179 then enumerates the cases in which persons may be arrested; and cases in which the writ of ne exeat was allowed, are omitted. Arrest, therefore, in such cases is prohibited. * * * "But it is said that the writ is revived by the act of Dec. 14, 1847, as it declares that any Justice of the Supreme Court, or a County Judge, may, out of Court, allow writs of ne exeat, in suits and proceedings in the Supreme Court." The Presiding Judge does not think that this incidental provision amounts to a repeal of section 178, so far as it concerns the writ of ne exeat. * * * "The order appealed from should be reversed with costs, and the order allowing the writ and the writ itself should be vacated."

THE OLYMPIC THEATRE LITIGATION DECIDED—A DISSENTING OPINION.

Bolles, Receiver, &c., vs. Duff et al.—The General Term, yesterday, CLERKE, Presiding Judge, and SUTHERLAND and BARNARD on the bench, decided the long litigated case of the Olympic Theatre. The Court say the order is reversed, qualifiedly without costs. The order of the General Term to be settled on notice before Judge SUTHERLAND. The latter, in his somewhat elaborate opinion, says: Pending the argument of this appeal the majority of the Court decided that the papers handed or sent to the Judge who made the order appealed from upon due notice to the attorney for the defendant, after the argument and submission of the motion had been properly printed as a part of the appeal papers, and were to be considered by the General Term in determining the questions presented by the appeal. As to these papers, the majority of the General Term substantially hold, if the learned Judge who made the order appealed from, did not consider them in making the order as it appears from his opinion, if he did not, he ought, considering the nature of the order asked for, and the circumstances under which it was made to have done so. * * * * Upon the whole I think the order should be reversed, as made inadvertently and without sufficient consideration being given to the circumstances; that the defendant made the application as receiver, or to the conceded circumstances under which it was made, tending to show at least that the receiver might have made and supported his application with a purpose inconsistent with his duty as receiver. But I do not think Mr. Hayes, the lessee, should suffer all the probable consequences which would follow from an absolute unconditional reversal of the order. I think the order of reversal should have a provision or condition inserted in it, that such reversal shall not impair or in any way prejudice Mr. Hayes' possession or rights under the lease, for and during the residue of the 1st year of his term, that is, not before or until the first day of September next, 1869; but that from and including the 1st day of September next, the lease shall be void and of no effect, and that he continuing in possession thereafter, shall be considered as a tenant holding over without permission of his landlord, after the expiration of his term, as in contempt of that order of reversal. I cannot see that it would be right to break up Mr. Hayes in the height of the current theatrical season, therefore I think that the order of reversal should be conditional as above stated. The order should also be reversed without costs to either party. Presiding Justice CLERKE concurred.

BARNARD, J., dissenting, said: The defendant, Duff, is in possession of the property in question, claiming to own the same. By an interlocutory judgment of this Court, it has been decided that he is in possession as mortgagee, and not as owner. Pending the final decision of this question, Duff has been appointed receiver. He has a large interest in the property, if only as mortgagee in possession. The plaintiff is a receiver appointed upon proceeding supplementary to execution in an action where a judgment was obtained against John M. Trimble and William Fowler for $1,594 38. Trimble is alleged by plaintiff to be the owner of the property. The defendant, Duff, applied at Chambers for leave to lease the property to James E. Hayes. This was approved, and the papers show these facts. Hayes had been the lessee for the year ending 31st of August, 1868, at the rent of $15,000. He had expended some $22,000, in addition to his rent, in permanent improvements on the property. He had established an excellent reputation for the same. It was a theatre property, and its value was largely increased, as well by the money outlay in improving the same as by the successful management of the business conducted in it. No one other than Hayes applied to lease, prior to the application for the lease by Duff to lease to Hayes. Hayes applied for the lease at a reduced rent, in consideration of what he had done to benefit the estate. The affidavits of seven competent judges of the value of the rental of such property were annexed to the application for lease, fixing such value at from $12,000 to $15,000 per year. The affidavits of six equally skilled persons, attached to the opposing papers, show their opinion of the value to be not less than $20,000. In addition to this, there were five offers to take the lease for $20,000 and upward. Some of those offers contained their impossible conditions, with the understanding that such scenery, property and fixtures, as the Court may decree to belong to the estate of the late John M. Trimble, shall remain in the building, to be used by me. Nearly all the offers contained this as a similar condition. The Court granted leave to lease to Hayes for $15,000 per year, and to keep the same in repair. In view of all the facts, I think the lease to Hayes was the best for all concerned. He had expended much money, and had maintained a good and attractive theatre. He alone agreed to keep the same in repair during his new lease, at his own cost and expense. He released any claim he had for previous repairs and improvements under the old lease. He agreed to maintain a first-class theatre, and to do nothing to injure the reputation or good-will of the same. The undisputed cost of these repairs for the previous year, the consent to continue the same, the punctual payment of the rent, and the successful management of the business, must all be taken into the account; and then it is quite clear that the offer of Hayes was better than any other made. The order should, I think, be affirmed with costs.

SUPREME COURT — CIRCUIT — PART I.—MARCH 9.

Before Judge Ingraham and a Jury.

VERDICT AGAINST A RAILROAD COMPANY.

Daniel Sweeney vs. The Hudson River Railroad Company.—This was an action brought by the plaintiff against the defendants to recover the sum of $2,500 damages, alleged to have been sustained by reason of plaintiff being knocked down and run over by a team, with a truck attached, on the 22d of January, 1867. The team was owned by defendants, and was in charge of one of their agents. The plaintiff was on the sidewalk in the vicinity of Thirtieth-street and Tenth-avenue, when the horses, having broken away, ran upon the walk, and the pole of the truck struck plaintiff in the back. He claimed that the injuries were very severe. The trial occupied two days. The facts were fully reported in the TIMES of Tuesday. The jury, after a prolonged deliberation, rendered a verdict of $350 for the plaintiff.

For plaintiff, Mr. Hatch; for defendants, Mr. Loomis.

COMMON PLEAS—TRIAL TERM—PART I.—MARCH 9.

Before Judge Brady and a Jury.

"THE NEW ERA."

Henry M. Pierce, Jr., O. A. Jarvis, William Elmer and C. F. Wetmore vs. George H. Pool.—This is an action by plaintiffs claiming as trustees of an association known as "The New Era," organized with a view to the publication of a weekly religious paper to be known by that name, and to be conducted in the interests of the cause of Christian Union. In July, 1865, defendant agreed to purchase 100 shares of the capital stock of the Association at fifty per cent., (par value $100,) amounting to the sum of $5,000. Four thousand dollars of this sum was to be paid within thirty days after signing the articles of agreement, and the balance of $1,000 on ten days' notice. Two thousand dollars of the first installment of $4,000 was paid, and for the other $2,000 suit is now brought against him. In August, 1865, defendant finding that no paper had been published as proposed, demanded of plaintiffs that they return him his $2,000. This plaintiffs refused, but offered him in lieu thereof 100 shares of the capital stock of the Association. Defendant claims that at the time he entered into the agreement with plaintiffs, and paid the $2,000, they represented to him that they had $100,000 worth of stock; that it had all been taken except the stock offered to him, defendant; that $20,000 would be paid into the treasury that week, and $50,000 more in a few days, and that they had two most able editors employed; that on the 20th of July, when he paid them the $2,000, they further represented to him that they had received the sums of $20,000 and $50,000 before stated, and had formed an association, of which plaintiffs were the trustees. All of which defendant alleges to have been false, and were the inducements which led him to part with his $2,000, which, with interest, he now sets up as a counter claim. Some testimony was given tending to show what had been done by plaintiffs toward carrying out the original intention and their truthfulness and good faith in the transaction, and the cause adjourned over until to-morrow.

C. F. Wetmore for plaintiffs; L. R. Marsh for defendants.

COMMON PLEAS—TRIAL TERM—PART II.—MARCH 9.

DISCRIMINATION AGAINST COLOR.

Louisa M. Jacobs vs. The Atlantic Navigation Company.—At the opening of the Court this morning General Barlow, counsel for the plaintiff, arose and said he desired to call the attention of the Judge to a matter which occurred yesterday in his absence, and would then simply leave it with the Court. General Barlow then went on to state the occurrence, when he was interrupted by Mr. Sherwood, who said he dissented from the statement of the facts as made by him, (General Barlow.)

Mr. Joseph L. Blundell, the stenographer of the Court, was then directed to read from his notes the statement made by the juror, and then read the facts as heretofore published.

Mr. Sherwood again interposed by stating that there was no motion before the Court, and he excepted to the juror being questioned after the case had proceeded so far and the defence had nearly closed their testimony.

Judge DALY said that in such a case it was usual to submit the question to the juror, and if he was prejudiced or had formed an opinion, he would direct him to withdraw, and as one citizen to another, he would say to him that he should withdraw from the further consideration of the case, if he felt he could not render an unbiased verdict. Mr. Casey, the juror, then stated that he had no prejudice toward either side, and could find an impartial verdict, and he was, therefore, accepted as satisfactory to the defence. The larger portion of the day was consumed in reading testimony taken on commission, and relating chiefly to the custom which has always prevailed in regard to persons of color leaving by steamer from the port of Savannah. At the conclusion of the testimony, Mr. Sherwood summed up the case on the part of the defendants, referring the jury to the customs and regulations by which, in this State, the white and colored people are separated in schools, churches, cars and Hudson River steamboats. The cause was continued over until to-morrow.

Barlow & Hyatt for plaintiff; Sherwood & Howland for defendants.

FOURTH DISTRICT COURT—MARCH 9.

Before Justice Gale.

LANDLORD AND TENANT.

Richard H. Platt et al. vs. Rosenthal et al.—On the 27th of July, 1868, defendants leased to plaintiff Platt and a man named Dexter the premises No. 187 Church-street, to be used as a restaurant, at the annual rent of $2,500 payable monthly in advance. Platt and Dexter went into possession on Aug. 1, 1868. Soon after a new lease was made by defendants to Platt and a man named Duffy, who continued to occupy the premises until Nov. 7, 1868, when the premises were destroyed by fire. The premises were then formally surrendered to defendants, and the rent for the whole month having been paid in advance, demand was made for the return of an amount equivalent to the unoccupied time, which was refused. This suit was therefore brought, under the provisions of the act of 1860, to recover back the amount claimed.

The defence set up by the defendants was a general denial, and a counter claim for damages sustained by reason of the non-performance of an alleged agreement between defendants and Platt and Dexter that the latter would keep insured certain fixtures belonging to defendants which were hired with the premises, and which suffered injury by the fire. The plaintiffs denied this agreement, and testimony was produced on both sides in relation thereto, but the Court held as matter of law, irrespective of such testimony, that such an agreement, made between Platt and Dexter, the first lessees, was not admissible as a counter claim against Platt and Duffy, the subsequent lessees and plaintiffs in this action. Judgment was accordingly rendered in favor of plaintiffs for the amount claimed.

COURT OF GENERAL SESSIONS.

Before Judge Bedford.

THE TILLMAN HOMICIDE.

People vs. Robert Tillman, (colored,) indicted for the murder of William H. Carney, (colored,) on the 26th of October, 1868. After the jury had been sworn one man had to be excused on account of conscientious scruples on the subject of capital punishment. His place being supplied, the trial commenced.

Amaziah Emory (colored) stated that on the evening of the murder he and the deceased were playing cards at No. 127 West Thirty-third-street, in the back room of a liquor store. The prisoner came in and offered to stand treat, remarking, however, that he didn't know whether he'd treat "that yellow ——" or not, referring to the deceased; when the liquor was brought the deceased was supplied, but refused to drink; the prisoner urged him; deceased still refused; prisoner finally threw the ale into the fire and said: "You ——— don't speak to me again;" the deceased denied that he was "a ———;" the prisoner said "I ought to smash you over the snout;" he then walked out and the deceased and witness followed him; having reached the sidewalk, the prisoner turned and said "stand back," and instantly drew a pistol and shot the deceased, who soon after ran away, and was found a block off helpless and taken to his residence. On the cross-examination the prisoner's counsel, Judge Stewart, asked the witness if he knew that the prisoner had given the deceased a suit of clothes a day or two before. The prosecution objected. The defence urged that he wished to prove previous friendship. District-Attorney Hutchings said that friendship was not an excuse for murder. The question was ruled out. The witness being asked why he followed the two men out of the room said he expected to see a muss. Some objection was made to this evidence, but it was finally admitted.

Officer Burns heard the report of the pistol; saw a crowd round the door; saw the prisoner come out of the crowd, and make some motion, which excited the witness' suspicion; the witness "put for him," and, after some difficulty, took the pistol, and arrested the prisoner.

Rachel Carney, (colored,) widow of the deceased, testified to his being brought home in the evening, with a wound in his stomach, from which he died in 36 hours.

Henry Davis (colored) went to the drinking saloon in Thirty-third-street, with the prisoner on the evening in question, and the prisoner asked all present to drink; the waiting woman asked if Mr. Carney could have a drink, and prisoner said "Yes;" prisoner went into the back room and soon came out laughing; the deceased came up to him and said, "I don't care a d—n for you or your pop either;" (pop meaning pistol;) the prisoner went out the outside door, the deceased followed, and a shot was heard. The District-Attorney claimed that the witness was a reluctant witness, and asked leave to put leading questions from the testimony of the witness before the Coroner's jury. Judge Stewart objected. After consulting Greenleaf on Evidence, Mr. Hutchings withdrew his question to avoid danger in case of appeal.

Dr. C. C. Ferry's affidavit was read to the effect that Carney died of the pistol shot in his abdomen, and this closed the evidence for the prosecution. The witnesses for the defence were called.

Diana Wilson (colored) was going by the saloon on the evening in question and saw prisoner come out; the deceased followed with a drawn knife, with which he stabbed four or five times at the prisoner's back, without hitting him; the prisoner, being pressed so hard that he "couldn't do nothing," drew the pistol and witness heard the report, and then went to tell Tillman's wife that Carney was going to stab him; prisoner is an honest, hard-working poultry-picker and carries a pistol to protect himself. (Mr. Hutchings suggested "from poultry.") On the cross-examination she stated that she was a friend of the prisoner, having lived in the house with him and his wife for eight months. She did not give this information to the Coroner, although she knew her friend Tillman's life was in danger; when in the street she was on her way home from a grocery half a block distant from her home; she started for the grocery at seven P. M., went directly there, stayed ten minutes, hastened back, and reached the saloon opposite her home at eight P. M.; she had kept all this a secret except from the counsel, to whom she communicated it two days ago; she had also told the story to Mrs. Tillman; nobody came out of the saloon with prisoner and deceased; the blade of the knife was as large as witness' finger; witness was several paces from the men when she saw the knife glitter. The witness was rather disposed to be impudent.

Louisa Parker (colored) said that the deceased came to her residence, had some conversation with her and went out to the closet, came out and went up stairs to his room; witness never saw prisoner have a pistol.

Henrietta Bogart testified that she saw deceased and conversed with him. Judge BEDFORD ruled out the conversations between deceased and these two witnesses, and Judge Stewart took exceptions to the rulings.

Julia A. Williams was brought on the stand to bring out the same ruling and exception.

Officer Burns was called again, and asked if deceased said anything about the shooting. Judge BEDFORD ruled out the question and Judge Stewart took exception. He then urged that if the prisoner said anything to the deceased about going to the Station-house it was his (the counsel's) right to ask for it. Judge BEDFORD ruled that as the witness was recalled as a witness for the defence, the counsel for the defence could not ask leading questions. Judge Stewart took exception. The conversation was, however, elicited on cross-examination by Mr. Hutchings, and it appeared that the prisoner denied shooting deceased.

Henry Ives, (uncolored,) the prisoner's landlord, said prisoner had borne a good character so far as he knew. The case was then postponed to to-day.

SENTENCE FOR MANSLAUGHTER.

Eliza Johnson, indicted for the murder of her husband, having pleaded guilty to manslaughter in the fourth degree on the 3d of March, was sentenced to the Penitentiary for six months.

The Court then adjourned.

TUESDAY, March 9—P. M.

The Street was less exercised to-day than on Monday by the Cabinet news from Washington, although the interest was quite general in the probable settlement of the question of Secretary of the Treasury. About 2 o'clock it was understood that the resignation of Mr. STEWART had been accepted by the President, and that the appointment was likely to fall upon some other New-York man or upon Mr. BOUTWELL, of Massachusetts. The New-York names mentioned were Governor E. D. MORGAN and Mr. DAVID A. WELLS, Special Revenue Commissioner. The sales of Gold, which left off 131⅝ ⅌ cent. last night, fluctuated from 131⅝ to 130¾ and then up again to 131⅜@131⅝ ⅌ cent. There was a pretty large business done, in part to close up short accounts made on the sudden rise early yesterday to 132@132¼ ⅌ cent. The market left off quiet at about 131⅜ ⅌ cent. at 4 P. M.

The Foreign Exchanges for the Cunard steamer of Wednesday, (to-morrow,) were in fair demand on the basis of 108¾ ⅌ cent. for 60-day bills on London, with exceptions at 108⅝ and also at 108⅝@⅞ ⅌ cent. There was less competition than yesterday from short sight drawers at 109@109¼ ⅌ cent.

Money was in fair supply to the Brokers at 7 ⅌ cent., notwithstanding some increase in the Railway speculation at the Stock Exchange. The new law in regard to the Certification of Bank Checks creates some trouble at the outset, though less than was apprehended, as the volume of Brokers' Checks is readily reduced by increasing the daily clearance of Stocks through the Bankers' and Brokers' Association, and also by the use of the Checks of the wealthy houses of the Street without certification. As the new practice accommodates itself to the business of the Stock Exchange, the effect will no doubt sensibly reduce not only the heavy clearances of Checks through the Associated Bank Clearing House, but save much trouble and some risk to the Bank Officers.

On the Stock Exchange the Public Funds were generally firm through the forenoon, and steady at the close of the day. The business was active in the 5-20s of 1867, and to a fair amount in other descriptions. In the State Bonds the prices were higher for Louisianas, Tennessees and North Carolinas; steady for Virginias, and a fraction cheaper for Missouris. In the Miscellaneous Shares, Pacific Mail, both classes of Mariposa and the Express stocks were all better, and the Railways generally upward, with a decidedly increased interest in New-York Central, Hudson River, Michigan Southern, Rock Island and the Northwests. The last named improved on the large traffic of the first week in March, which shows $247,000 as against $168,000 same week last season, a gain of about $79,000.

After the late Boards broke up the following quotations (bidding prices) were made, as compared with Monday night:

BANKING AND FINANCIAL.

☞ THE FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS OF the Rockford, Rock Island and St. Louis Railroad Company pay both the Principal and Seven per Cent. Interest—1st February and 1st August—in GOLD COIN, Free of Government Tax.

A limited amount only of these Bonds may be had, at par and accrued interest in currency, of

H. H. BOODY, Treasurer,
No. 12 Wall-st.,
or of HENRY CLEWS & CO., Bankers,
No. 32 Wall-st.

☞ THE UNION PACIFIC RAILROAD COMPANY'S BONDS are a first mortgage upon one of the longest lines of railroad in the world. The amount will be less than $27,000 per mile. The earnings from local business over a portion of the road last year were over five million dollars, and after its completion early this season, the immense through traffic of the Pacific States will increase this sum to fifteen or twenty millions. The payment of both interest and principal of the bonds in gold is, therefore, perfectly sure.

The present high price of Governments offers a favorable opportunity to sell and to reinvest in a bond equally safe and more valuable on account of the longer period before its maturity. The exchange will now pay a profit of from ten to eighteen per cent. As the issue of these bonds will soon cease, parties who desire to invest are invited to make their subscriptions at once. They will be received at the Company's office, No. 20 Nassau-street, and by JOHN J. CISCO & SON, No. 59 Wall-street, and by banks and bankers generally. A pamphlet, with full particulars, sent free on application.

BANKING AND FINANCIAL.

☞ SAFE DEPOSIT DEPARTMENT OF THE NATIONAL PARK BANK—For the safe-keeping and protection from fire and burglars, of Securities of all kinds, including Bonds, Stocks, Mortgages, Wills and Diamonds, and valuable Jewelry of every description. An inspection of the vault, constructed by the National Park Bank in their new building, will at once convince all parties interested that the most perfect attainable security has been reached, and at an extremely moderate annual cost to each individual depositor. The officers will take pleasure in showing the vault on application.

The Philadelphia Ledger says that "the anthracite coal production continues on the increase. The total tonnage of all the leading coal carrying companies for the week ending on Thursday was 155,731 tons, against 108,336 tons in corresponding week last year, showing an increase for the week of 47,365 tons, and 1,696,833 against 1,382,702 tons last year to same date, showing an increase of 314,131 tons. The trade in Philadelphia is some little encouraged by a week of pretty sharp weather, and is rendered more cheerful in the Schuylkill coal regions by the reduction in freight and tolls 25c. ⅌ ton by the Reading Railroad Company. Notwithstanding these favorable signs, they are believed to be but temporary in their effects, as the coal production is seen to be steadily on the increase, and shipments of coal hence to distant markets for the past week have been quite light. The retail trade is dull and prices are maintained with considerable difficulty; indeed, a decline is generally expected, which makes the consumption, until the 'good time coming' arrives, as light as possible."

The minutes of meeting held February twenty-five were read and approved.

RESOLUTIONS.

By Alderman Coulter—

Whereas, Mr. Thorne Walling, at his own cost and expense, (amounting to six hundred and ten dollars,) did flag and set curb and gutter stones in front of his property, on the corner of Beach and Washington-streets; subsequently a resolution and ordinance was passed by the Common Council, and approved by the Mayor, providing for the flagging, &c., of Washington-street, from Reade to Hoboken-street, for which the aforesaid property of Mr. Walling was erroneously assessed to the amount of two hundred and fifty-five dollars and thirty-three cents, thereby inflicting upon him a manifest injustice; and as it is not competent for the Common Council to remit an assessment of the nature of the confirmation, reparation can only be made Mr. Walling by making a donation sufficient to cover the amount of such assessment; be it, therefore,

Resolved, That the Comptroller be and he is hereby authorized and directed to draw his warrant in favor of Thorne Walling, for the sum of two hundred and fifty-five dollars and thirty-three cents, as a donation, to enable him to pay an assessment on his property on the corner of Beach and Washington streets, for the work of flagging, &c., Washington-street, from Reade to Hoboken-street; the amount to be charged by the Comptroller to the account of "Donations," or any other appropriate account.

Which was referred to the Committee on Finance.

By Alderman Coulter—

Resolved, That all avenues be renumbered, where not already done, under the direction of the Street Commissioner.

Which was referred to the Committee on Streets.

By Alderman McGrath—

Resolved, That permission be and is hereby given to the Commissioners for the erection of a new market in the Eighteenth Ward to connect the new market building with the sewer in Sixteenth-street by a twelve-inch drain-pipe, and to connect the said building with the Croton water pipe in said Sixteenth-street by a four-inch supply water-pipe, without the payment of any fees or any other expense for either of such connections, any resolution or ordinance heretofore passed by the Common Council, or regulation, order or custom of the Croton Aqueduct Department to the contrary notwithstanding; the work of making such connections to be under the direction of the Croton Aqueduct Department.

Which was adopted.

By Alderman Moore—

Resolved, That One Hundred and Twenty-second-street, from Second to Third-avenue, be paved continuously with the pavement known as the "Fisk Concrete Pavement," in accordance with the specification therefor now on file in the office of the Clerk of the Common Council, and the crosswalks parallel with the line of the proposed pavement be readjusted to the grade of the said proposed pavement without extra charge thereof, under the direction of the Croton Aqueduct Department, and that an ordinance therefor be adopted.

By Alderman Miller—

Resolved, That the Comptroller be and he is hereby authorized and directed to draw his warrant in favor of Rev. E. J. O'Reilly, one of the trustees of Saint Mary's Church in Grand-street, for the sum of two hundred dollars, as a donation, to enable said trustee to pay assessment on Saint Mary's Institute, situated in Madison-street, the same having been levied against said institute for the extension of Worth-street, from Baxter-street to Chatham-square, the Comptroller to charge the same to the account of "Donations."

By Alderman Ward—

Resolved, That One Hundred and Twenty-ninth-street, from Third to Sixth-avenue, be paved continuously with the pavement known as the "Fisk Concrete Pavement," in accordance with the specification therefor now on file in the office of the Common Council, and the crosswalks parallel with the line of the proposed pavement be readjusted to the grade of the said proposed pavement, without extra charge therefor, under the direction of the Croton Aqueduct Department; and that an ordinance therefor be adopted.

By the President—

Resolved, That the Comptroller be and he is hereby authorized and directed to refund to John H. McCabe, contractor for building sewers in Eighty-fifth, Eighty-sixth and Eighty-seventh streets, between Fourth and Fifth avenues, in the City of New-York, or his assigns, the sum of four hundred and four dollars, the said sum having been deducted from the amount of his contracts for the construction of the above-mentioned sewers, for one hundred and one days' overtime in finishing said sewers; also, for the sum of two hundred and forty-four dollars, for sixty-one days' overtime, deducted from contracts for the construction of sewers at the foot of Forty-sixth-street and Hudson River, and Fifty-first-street and Hudson River, and charge the same to "City Contingencies," or any other unexpended appropriation.

By Alderman Cuddy—

Resolved, That One Hundred and Twenty-fifth-street, from Ninth-avenue to Harlem River, be paved continuously with the pavement known as the "Fisk Concrete Pavement," in accordance with the specifications now on file in the office of the Clerk of the Common Council, and the crosswalks parallel with the line of the proposed pavement be readjusted to the grade of the said proposed pavement without extra charge therefor, under the direction of the Croton Aqueduct Department, and that an ordinance therefor be adopted.

Which was ordered on file.

MESSAGE FROM THE MAYOR.

The President laid before the Board a message from the Mayor, returning without his approval resolution to employ the Evening Press and Daily News as Corporation papers, the message being as follows:

MAYOR'S OFFICE, }
NEW-YORK, March 1, 1869. }

Respectfully disapproved, first, because the News already is a Corporation paper; second, because the other paper herein named has only published fifty-two numbers, and while I am in favor of employing every newspaper of the City to spread abroad municipal information of an official character, the employment should be of an established newspaper, and not an experimental one.

A. OAKEY HALL, Mayor.

Which was received, laid on the table for ten days, directed to be entered at length in the minutes, and published in two or more papers employed by the Corporation.

The President laid before the Board a message from the Mayor, transmitting invitation to review procession of Irish Societies, March seventeen, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-nine.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

EUROPE.

The political news in England, yesterday, was both meagre and unimportant. In the House of Commons, yesterday, Mr. Fortescue, Chief Secretary for Ireland, denied that Mackay, the Fenian convict, had been released, as reported. The ship Tritonia, from Port Saida for New-York, foundered on the coast of Sicily. Her crew were all saved.

A stormy debate occurred in the Spanish Constituent Cortes, on Monday, when Republican members made bitter attacks upon the Ministry for their monarchical proclivities, and at the same time demanded that the Duke of Montpensier be divested of his rank as Marshal of Spain. General Prim and Admiral Topete replied and stated that the Duke could not be deprived of his rank, and that a monarchy with him on the throne was preferable to a Republic. Marshal Serrano made a calm and dignified speech, and deprecated the pressure made by the Republicans on the Cortes as impolitic and unfair.

CUBA.

Several skirmishes are reported as having taken place between the troops and insurgents within the jurisdiction of Sagua. President Grant's supposed views and intentions on the Cuban question receive much attention in Havana.

CONGRESS.

In the Senate, yesterday, the morning hour was occupied by reports upon minor bills already before the Senate, and by the introduction of a large number of private bills, all of which were received and duly referred to appropriate committees. The Tenure-of-Office bill came up in discussion after the expiration of the morning hour, on a motion to take it up by discharging the Committee to which it had been referred. No result was reached, however, in consequence of a message being received from the President. The message proved to be a request for permission to withdraw the message sent in on the 6th inst. for the purpose of securing Mr. Stewart's exemption from the provisions of the law of 1789. The message was laid on the table, as was also another one inclosing the report of the Secretary of State, giving a list of the laws passed at the third session of the Fortieth Congress. The Senate adjourned at 1:30 P. M.

In the House the Speaker presented the resignation of Mr. E. B. Washburne, now Secretary of State, as Representative from the Third District of Illinois. The House then proceeded to elect a chaplain, when Rev. J. G. Butler, of Washington, was selected by a decided vote. A resolution was adopted instructing the Committee on Elections to inquire into the validity of the last Congressional election in Louisiana, and if the persons claiming seats are entitled thereto. A bill was introduced by Mr. Schenck to reduce into one act and amend all the existing laws on the internal revenue, which was referred to the Committee of the Whole. Several bills and resolutions were then introduced and appropriately referred, when the House adjourned until Friday.

GENERAL.

President Grant on Saturday last removed all the Union Pacific Railroad Commissioners except Mr. Williams. Frank Blair and Mr. Snow were among those removed, and Ex-Congressman Dodge, of Iowa, is understood to be one of the new appointees.

The returns from New-Hampshire show a smaller vote than in November, but indicate an increase in the Republican majority over the election of last March. The election of Onslow Stearns, the Republican candidate for Governor, is secured by a majority of 3,000 over Bedell. A full Republican Congressional delegation is elected, as well as a majority in the State Legislature.

Moses Lowell, Republican, was yesterday elected Mayor in the City of Saco, Me., by 800 majority.

Messrs. Wendell Phillips, Edmund Jackson, William I. Bowditch and Charles K. Whipple have been removed from office as trustees of the fund left by Francis Jackson, for declining to execute said trust according to the terms of a decree of the Supreme Judicial Court. The other trustees, Messrs. William Lloyd Garrison, Edmund Quincy and Samuel May, are directed to nominate trustees to fill the vacancy. The Supreme Court ordered the trustees of Jackson's will to pay the balance of $9,209 to the New-England branch of the American Freedmen's Union Commission, and Messrs. Phillips, Jackson, Bowditch and Whipple, of the trustees, refused to pay $5,000 of the fund, insisting upon keeping it to be used in efforts to secure the ballot for the negro.

David H. Carpenter, who has been on trial before the Allegany County Court of Oyer and Terminer, for the murder of his brother, has been found guilty and sentenced to be hanged on the 16th of April.

There was a race on snow shoes at Montreal, on Saturday last, for a silver cup and $25. There were three entries, on a mile course, and the best time made was 5:48.

A German named Christian Lauenstine committed suicide in Chicago on Saturday, after returning from a fire, because, as he said, the Chicago people had no sympathy for firemen.

On Friday last as some men were cutting a road through the snow drift near Peacham Corners, Vt., they came upon the frozen bodies of Mrs. Emmons, aged 60 years, her daughter, and her grandson. The old lady had fallen, overcome by the cold and snow, half a mile from a farmer's house, through the windows of which a light was shining all night, while the daughter had approached a little nearer, and the boy was within two rods of the window. He had evidently dragged himself some distance on his hands and knees.

A general commercial convention is to be held in Memphis on the 19th inst, and it is announced that Ex-President Johnson will be in attendance.

John Glane, who was convicted in Baltimore for the murder of Henry B. Grove, and sentenced to be hanged, but who was discharged on account of the original indictment having been found by an illegally-constituted Grand Jury, has just been indicted a second time. Several convicts now in the Penitentiary, who were indicted by the same Grand Jury, are now clamoring for their release.

Rev. Mr. Kavanagh, of Seneca Falls, recently appointed pastor of the Holy Family Church in Auburn, who was rejected by that congregation, has been transiently reappointed to the Church in Seneca Falls.

John Bush and James Murphy escaped from Auburn Prison on Saturday evening at about 8 o'clock. The former was sentenced to one year's imprisonment for grand larceny, and the latter to five years' for burglary. The severe snow-storm which prevailed that night enabled them to evade the pursuers, who were speedily on their track.

The annual session of the Supreme Lodge of the Knights of Pythias commenced yesterday at Richmond, Va., when representatives from nearly all the States were present and handed in reports, which show a membership of 50,000 and $7,627 in the treasury. The session will last four days.

The difficulty between the Northern Central and Erie Railroads has been adjusted, and trips are now made without change of cars.

A distillery was destroyed on Monday night in St. Louis, causing a loss of $15,000; partially insured. A morocco factory was burned yesterday in Philadelphia, involving a loss of $6,000. A lumber-yard in Boston caught fire on Monday, and a loss of $60,000 was occasioned.

The Virginia Republican State Convention assembled yesterday at Petersburg, when a regular scrimmage ensued over the temporary Chairmanship, necessitating the action of the Police. Mayor Burgess addressed the Convention in behalf of peace and good order, which was immediately followed by another fight. The Mayor then ordered the Police to clear the hall.

The Union Pacific Railroad track passed Ogden, in Salt Lake Valley, on Monday. The road is now clear, and trains are running to the end of the track.

The Woman's Suffrage Convention are now in session at Springfield, Mass.

Daniel L. Haines, President of the Connecticut River Railroad, has been appointed Government Commissioner of the Union Pacific Road.

A singular accident occurred on the Erie Railroad yesterday. Some loose rails which a freight train was conveying were suddenly projected into the smoking-car of a passing passenger train. Three men were injured, but none of them fatally.

Coroner Keenan and a jury yesterday investigated the cause of the death of Eliza Callahan, whose body was found with evidences that she had been beaten to death in Sixty-sixth-street last Sunday morning. The jury found that her death was caused by John Hilpert, who was committed to await the action of the Grand Jury.

Dr. Gouverneur M. Smith lectured yesterday evening, on "Food," before the Western Branch of the Young Men's Christian Association. The lecture was instructive, and enlivened by many amusing anecdotes.

"The Aims and Objects of the Founders of Massachusetts" was the subject of a lecture delivered before the Historical Society, last evening, by Rev. George E. Ellis, D. D.

A lecture on the interesting topics of "Courtship and Marriage" was given last night by Mr. de Cordova, at the Charles-street U. P. Church, for the benefit of its Sabbath School. The building was well filled and a great deal of mirth was caused by the lecture.

Cotton was quiet and weak in price yesterday. Breadstuffs were in moderate demand; Flour and Wheat were rather easier; Corn was dearer. Provisions were not particularly active; Pork was easier. Groceries quiet. More animation was noted in the freight line, but at slightly modified rates.

The general impression of the public, based upon the published diplomatic records of the time, is that the withdrawal of the French troops from Mexico was the result of Mr. Seward's firm and rather menacing note of Dec. 6, 1865, to M. Montholon, the French Minister. But all persons at all familiar with diplomatic history are well aware that formal notes between nations on controverted points oftentimes simply record results which have been accomplished by other means. In nine cases out of ten the real adjustment of international disputes is effected in quiet conversations between the contending parties, or those who represent their interests, and the diplomatic correspondence which follows merely puts into official form the results thus reached. As a matter of course this correspondence is all the public sees or knows of the whole transaction,—and gives to it the shape and color which it bears in history.

We have reason to believe that the withdrawal of the French from Mexico affords no exception to the general rule, and that while seeming to have been the result of the diplomacy of the two Governments, and especially of the threatening note from Mr. Seward already referred to, it was in reality accomplished in a very different manner and by an entirely different agency. Indeed, it is scarcely conceivable that so sagacious a ruler as the Emperor of France should have allowed himself to be forced into a step which he must have known from the outset was a political necessity, and which he should have accepted as such in anticipation of measures on our part which would expose him to reproach and misconstruction at home. Indeed, in view of the attacks which have been made upon him on this very point, it is a little singular that he has not long since set the real facts of the case before the people of France.

We have read the original papers, correspondence and memoranda relating to this subject, and may, at some future day, lay them before the public,—contenting ourselves for the present with stating that they show that the real arrangement by which the Emperor agreed to withdraw his troops from Mexico was made by him with President Lincoln, through the personal agency of General J. Watson Webb, the former editor of the Courier & Enquirer, who had become personally acquainted with Louis Napoleon when the latter came as an exile from France to this country from Brazil, in 1835, for whom he had always cherished a warm personal friendship, and with whom he had maintained a constant correspondence. When General Webb was appointed Minister to Brazil in 1861, intending to go to Rio by way of Europe, he was requested by Mr. Lincoln to see the Emperor and learn his views in relation to our then blockade of the Southern coast. The interview took place at Fontainebleau on the 29th of July; and General Webb's report to President Lincoln of that interview, and Mr. Dayton's representation of its influence upon his position was so satisfactory, that a great weight of anxiety was removed from the mind of the Executive.

General Webb next visited Lord John Russell, to whom he was personally well known, and by invitation spent most of a day with him at Pembroke Lodge, Richmond Park. Of that interview he also made an official report, which, together with the message intrusted to him from the Emperor Napoleon to President Lincoln, removed all anxiety in regard to any interference with our blockade.

General Webb then repaired to Rio de Janeiro and took charge of his mission; and in February, 1863, when he learned that the Emperor of France had commenced his Mexican intervention, he not only urged upon our Government the enforcement of the Monroe Doctrine, but he wrote to the Emperor, pointing out the grand mistake he had made in recognizing the Priest Party in Mexico as one to be relied on or capable of giving him support in his hazardous proceeding. He showed how utterly impossible it was that the United States should ever assent to his proceedings, and announced as absolutely certain that the people, irrespective of the Government, would insist upon the withdrawal of his forces from Mexico; while the people of France could not but disapprove of a proceeding calculated to produce a collision with the United States.

This letter remained unanswered some two months, when the course of events, and more reliable information in regard to the Priest Party in Mexico, satisfied the Emperor that his old friend had not deceived him, but had related to him truths, which, most probably, he would not learn from any other source. Finally, on the 22d of May, 1863, the Emperor acknowledged the receipt of General Webb's letter, and with the utmost frankness explained how he was drawn into this Mexican affair, and declared his determination to withdraw the moment he could do so with credit and without compromitting the honor of France. He also gave notice that, while it was his intention to withdraw, he must not be threatened. Any attempt of the kind would so complicate his relations with his own people as necessarily to prevent his withdrawing.

The letter, which we have read, is a very extraordinary production; exceedingly friendly, frank, and creditable to his sagacity and good judgment. General Webb very properly considered the letter as designed rather for the President of the United States than for himself, and accordingly forwarded it to Mr. Lincoln. The written pledge it contained that the Emperor would withdraw his troops from Mexico, whenever he could do so with honor, was accepted by Mr. Lincoln in the same spirit in which it was written, and hence the lull which took place in our negotiations with France, during the next two years. After Mr. Lincoln's death, a new and less friendly tone is apparent in our correspondence with France. Mr. Lincoln's prudence, and his reliance upon the good faith of the Emperor, no longer guided our councils; and in the Autumn of 1865, the wisest among us apprehended a collision with our ancient ally. Such an event—a war with the most powerful nation in the world, in the then unsettled state of the country, and the derangement of our finances, was something too terrible to anticipate; and yet it appeared but too probable.

General Webb arrived at Lisbon on his way home, at the close of October, 1865, and wrote from Lisbon to the Emperor, announcing his intention to sail in four days for New-York from Liverpool, and inquiring what he could do in regard to the Mexican question. On arrival at Southampton he received a telegram from the Emperor urging him to visit Paris. He went accordingly, and, on his arrival at the Hotel Bristol, on the evening of the 9th of November, was met by an invitation or command to breakfast with the Emperor at St. Cloud on the following morning. Of course, he went accordingly, and, after breakfast, spent more than two hours with His Majesty. The result was an agreement between the parties, subject to the approval of the President, that the French troops should be withdrawn from Mexico in twelve, eighteen and twenty-four months.

It was stipulated by the Emperor, that our Minister in France should know nothing of this arrangement; and to guard against its becoming public by the action of our Congress, even Mr. Seward was not to have knowledge of it officially. And it was further agreed that if President Johnson approved of what had been arranged, General Webb should write to the Emperor to that effect, and thus prevent the arrangement getting into the Foreign Office of either country—the Emperor pledging himself to announce the fact in April, 1866, through the Moniteur.

General Webb arrived here, after a stormy passage of seventeen days, on the 5th December, 1865. He was prohibited from putting pen to paper on the subject; and although the thermometer was but little above zero, he repaired to Washington the same night, and immediately made his report. On the evening of the 6th December, 1865, Mr. Seward called on General Webb and informed him that the President approved of his arrangement with the Emperor Napoleon, and desired him to write to the Emperor in his (the President's) name and express his cordial approbation of the proposed settlement of the Mexican question.

General Webb wrote accordingly; and in April, 1865, the Moniteur contained the promised announcement of the Emperor's intention to withdraw his troops from Mexico.

Thus it will appear, that the Department of State had nothing whatever to do with the settlement of the Mexican question; and it is most unjust to Napoleon III. to permit, uncontradicted, the universally received idea that the French troops were withdrawn from Mexico in consequence of the threatening letter from Mr. Seward to the Marquis de Montholon, which bears date Dec. 6, and was sent to him on the 11th. As a matter of course, both in this country and in Europe, the public could attribute the withdrawal from Mexico to no other cause; but as it now appears that the letter referred to was written after Mr. Seward had been officially notified of the settlement of this all-important question, and after he had directed General Webb, in the name of the President, to communicate to the Emperor the President's approval and acceptance of such settlement thus agreed upon, public sentiment both here and in France will do justice to the Emperor and vindicate him from the reproach of having been driven out of Mexico by anything that could be construed into a threat.

It seems clear, from the documentary evidence which has been submitted to us in this matter, that as early as the 22d of May, 1863, the Emperor, in his letter to General Webb, declared that he desired very much to withdraw from the Mexican business, and expressed his determination to retire his troops just as soon as he could do so with honor and without wounding the sensitive pride of the French people. From that determination he never swerved, and Mr. Lincoln died in the full faith that he would fulfill this understanding and that the Mexican question would thus be settled. After Mr. Lincoln's death the subject became one of political agitation, and we seemed to be on the eve of a rupture with France, when the personal relations which General Webb had maintained with the Emperor enabled him in an unofficial and friendly interview to effect an understanding which would have been found much more difficult, if not absolutely impossible, of attainment through the ordinary channels of diplomatic intercourse.

General Webb, from whom we have these facts, and who has permitted us to read the correspondence, examine the original telegrams, &c., and to make public this statement from them, may be censured by some persons for having so long suppressed these important developments, due alike to our country and Napoleon. But it must be borne in mind that General Webb was an officer of the State Department, and could not, without a great breach of official etiquette and a violation of duty, make any revelations on the subject until Mr. Johnson and Mr. Seward had retired from office. He has, however, never failed to vindicate the Emperor of France from the reproach that he was induced to retire from Mexico by reason of threats fulminated more than two years after he had voluntarily given a written pledge to retire, and after he had specifically named the manner as well as the time of his retiring. The Emperor, says General Webb, not only carried out the arrangement made by him in its true spirit, but when it became apparent that he must retire all his forces at once to insure their safety, and not by detachments, instead of fixing upon eighteen months as the average of the time agreed upon, he voluntarily named sixteen months, (March, 1867,) as the period for withdrawing.

General Webb maintains that no official personage ever kept faith better than has Louis Napoleon in this Mexican affair; and he asserts, what the public will be gratified to learn, that he was among the first who perceived his error in going to Mexico, and at once voluntarily pledged himself to withdraw as soon as he could do so without compromising the honor of France.

It is scarcely necessary to add, that General Webb, who is now on his return to Brazil, has placed these facts at our disposal, to be used immediately after the 4th of March, as an act of justice to one who has conducted himself throughout this affair with a frankness and good faith which are conspicuous in the whole transaction.

Our Foreign Ministers and Consuls.

Our foreign Ministers are pretty much all, like Barkis, "willin'." Mr. Hale, at Madrid, has made no bones of it, (or, as Mr. Wade would say, "no butter,") and has asked plumply to be kept in office under Grant. Mr. Kilpatrick, late of Santiago, has done the same. Mr. Bancroft, at Berlin, has paid the silent but significant compliment to General Grant of giving a grand dinner in honor of his inauguration. Mr. Dix, at Paris, goes a step further, and writes that he has been "enjoying the luxury of silence," and adding, "I know no greater nuisance in the United States than speech-making, and my greatest enjoyment abroad has been my exemption from it"—which certainly ought to suit General Grant's ideas to a T, and make him as well as the country regret that General Dix has already announced his purpose to come home, where he can no longer hope to indulge his favorite "luxury."

Meanwhile, however, Mr. Johnson, in England, says nothing whatever about Grant, or about keeping his office. He has much else to do in talking to the cutters and straw-plaiters, and fishmongers, and in keeping all England in a roar of good humor, and in making known that the Alabama business is at last settled. We somehow fancy, too, that he never had any thoughts of retaining his office, and that, in any event, with his accustomed gallantry, he would "bow to the setting, not to the rising sun."

In general, however, we may conclude that all our foreign ministers and consuls are strong and out-spoken supporters of the new Administration, as is befitting, and that all have been "original Grant men" ever since last November at least. Our private conviction is, that they have also all been "Washburne men" from the start, and that they don't care who knows it.

The Cabinet—Mr. Stewart's Resignation Accepted.

It will be seen from our Washington dispatches this morning, that Mr. Stewart has placed in the President's hands a formal resignation of his position as Secretary of the Treasury, and that it has been accepted. Mr. Stewart was led to take this step after full consultation with the most eminent legal gentlemen in Washington. It was their opinion that, while the proposed transfer of the profits of his business to charitable purposes during his official term might satisfy the letter of the law, it might be construed into an evasion of its spirit; and Mr. Stewart and the President held the same view. It is certainly to be regretted that the country should be deprived of Mr. Stewart's services in a department where his eminent financial abilities and experience would be of great value to the Administration; but, under the circumstances, this is doubtless the best disposition that could be made of a very embarrassing question.

The other members of the Cabinet have signified their acceptance of their appointment, and the only vacancy now is that of the Secretaryship of the Treasury. Washington rumors state that Governor Boutwell, of Massachusetts, has been offered the position. If this is true, the resignation of Judge Hoar is probably determined on, as the President will not select two members of his Cabinet from the same State. But other names are also mentioned in connection with the position; and nothing definite is known respecting the President's intentions regarding it.

The Republican Party in Georgia.

The telegraph has told the result of the State Republican Convention held at Atlanta on Friday last. Resolutions were adopted affirming the incompleteness of reconstruction in the State, protesting against the composition and conduct of the Legislature, and appealing to Congress so to provide for the enforcement of its laws as shall secure the restoration to their seats of the expelled colored members, and the expulsion of those whom the Fourteenth Amendment makes ineligible.

Concerning the authority of the Convention to speak for the local Republican Party, the dispatches have been silent. The proceedings only were chronicled, leading us to infer that their authors were really the party's representatives. But the Atlanta New Era, an official journal of the United States, and whose editor hoisted the name of Grant long before any other man at the South, declares that this impression is incorrect. "It cannot be claimed that the Convention was fresh from the people," the Era asserts:

> "Not a half dozen counties were represented by men nominated in county conventions. They did not come with instructions from the people. One young man announced that he indorsed the whole of the proceedings for his 'four hundred white constituency,' whom he has not seen in two months."

The movement which culminated in this Convention has, in fact, produced a marked division in the Republican ranks. Those of them who associate reconstruction with partisan supremacy, and imagine that the State has no rights in the Union because—as one of the delegates complained—"the Democrats have got possession of the State generally," are, of course, eager for Congressional intervention. These persons construe the Congressional policy as a sort of warranty title to the exclusive possession of the local spoils. They are disgusted because others feed at the public crib.

On the other hand, it cannot be denied that an influential section of the party in the State maintains the sufficiency of what has already been done under the law, and deprecates a reopening of the quarrel on the ground that at the next election the Republicans will be able to take care of their own interests. Mr. Bryant, Chairman of the State Executive Committee, and one of the most effective workers for the party, is one of this class. In a published letter, announcing the relinquishment of his position because of inability to concur in the course of several of his associates, he shows that the party, as such, has conceded the completion of the work.

> "On the 15th day of August last a State Convention assembled in this city and nominated candidates for Electors of President and Vice-President. At that Convention the Republican Party took the position that Georgia was reconstructed. I was nominated as a candidate for Elector, and in canvassing my district, (the Fifth,) I told the people that the Republican Party had reconstructed the State; that if Mr. Seymour should be elected President, the State Government would be overthrown; but if General Grant should be elected, the present Government would stand. As Chairman of the State Executive Committee, I received and expended money and sent men to canvass the State. This I did by direction of the party. If Georgia was not reconstructed—if the State was not in the Union—we had no right to vote for Electors of President and Vice-President, and the money we expended was worse than wasted. I am not prepared now to stultify myself by saying that Georgia has not been reconstructed."

Mr. Bryant asserts that his views are shared by many of the most influential members of the party, among them Hon. A. T. Akerman, a Radical Republican, and "one of the purest and ablest men in Georgia." With regard to the Convention just held, he insists that the period elapsing between the date of the call and the date of assembling was so short that it was "impossible to reach the masses of the party, and to have the whole party fairly represented." This fact, together with the statement of the Atlanta journal respecting the character of the representation, may well induce a belief that the appeal to Congress for further intervention emanates from only a portion of the party whose interests it is proposed to serve.

The contest between the opposing opinions is on the whole conducted with moderation. Harsh and insulting resolutions offered to the Convention by extremists were quietly suppressed; and at present both sections of the party profess a willingness to abide by the action of Congress, whatever it may be. The wide differences existing between them as well as to the condition of affairs in the State, as in regard to the probable consequences of interference from Washington, prove the necessity of caution on the part of Congress. The party fidelity of those who deprecate fresh action is as well established as that of the advocates of a general upsetting of existing things, and their judgment is quite as much entitled to consideration. Where, as in this case, there is room for honest doubt, prudence would seem to suggest an abandonment of violent measures, and a little patient reliance upon the potency of influences within the State which the Legislature cannot hope to control. The whole people there are enfranchised. And no jugglery of the Democrats can deprive them of the power or the opportunity of reversing the unjust and unlawful doings of last September. Unless it be proposed to fix by act of Congress the partisan complexion of the Legislature, we do not see what more can be usefully attempted.

The Fullerton Case.

We publish elsewhere this morning the residue of the correspondence which has taken place between Attorney-General Evarts and District-Attorney Courtney, in regard to the Fullerton trial. Now that the President has given peremptory directions that this trial shall go on, the correspondence is less important to the public than it would have been if such an order had not been issued. It has, nevertheless, a good deal of interest from its bearing on the relation of various Government officials to the Internal Revenue frauds which have been so extensive, and which it has been found so difficult to punish, in this City.

No one can read this correspondence without clearly perceiving that, for some reason or other, the Attorney-General was exceedingly anxious to gratify Mr. Fullerton by throwing over his trial till the next term of the Court. The indictment was found on the 23d of November, 1868, and a postponement of the trial was secured by the defendant's counsel until it was finally set down for a day certain, when Mr. Evarts then called for copies of the indictment, testimony, and reference to the laws which Fullerton was charged with having violated. On the 3d of March, he disposed of the case by such directions as would secure postponement of the trial till the April term,—arguing very elaborately, meantime, against the necessity of a speedy trial, and throwing out what seem to be very uncalled-for insinuations against having it tried by a District-Attorney who might be supposed to resent Fullerton's constant and zealous attempts to secure his removal from office, and also against the arrangements which Judge Nelson had made for the presence of a presiding Judge.

This letter from the Attorney-General of the 3d of March,—which we publish this morning,—strikes us as a very extraordinary production, considering the very high official authority from which it emanates. It is, throughout, whether so intended or not, an argument to show that the offence for which Mr. Fullerton had been indicted was not clearly a violation of any specific law,—that the charge was likely to affect his reputation injuriously,—and that it was of very little consequence whether he should have a speedy trial or not.

We feel bound to say that in his replies to Mr. Evarts on all these points, Mr. Courtney vindicates his own official action with triumphant success. In the matter of employing as associate counsel Mr. B. F. Tracey,—who had been most zealous and successful in defending the revenue against fraud, and in securing the punishment of its perpetrators,—to which Mr. Evarts had taken exception, Mr. Courtney shows that he was acting under the direct authority of Commissioner Rollins.

If this transaction had stood alone, and Mr. Fullerton had been the only person on whose behalf the Attorney-General had thus interposed, his action would have been more easily susceptible of explanation. The deference he felt for the respectability of Mr. Fullerton's position in society, and the personal importunities of personal and professional friends, might account for his friendly interference. But Mr. Evarts had suspended all the whisky trials, and had thus given some of the most conspicuous offenders an opportunity to escape altogether by absconding, of which they were not slow to avail themselves.

But further comment on the subject is needless. General Grant has reversed the action of the late Administration on the subject, and the trial of this case is to go on. We trust it will be so conducted that equal and exact justice will be done to all the parties concerned.

MINOR TOPICS.

As a matter of course, New-Hampshire went Republican yesterday in the State election, all through. The Republicans polled a much heavier vote than might have been expected at this time.

We suppose that the million men who are now in pursuit of office are, to a great extent, the most incompetent million to fill the offices of which they are in pursuit. Notwithstanding the overwhelming number of place-hunters, the Administration will find it very hard work to secure the services of the right sort of men to fill the places,—that is to say, men possessed of ability and integrity. It is easy enough to fill offices with men who will shirk their work and "make money" out of them; but to get capable men to perform the duties faithfully and honestly on a small salary, is not so easy. Men who devote their lives to office-hunting are not likely to be men of high ability and character. And though the rush for office be ever so great, it will yet be necessary for the Heads of Departments to search for the right men, with lighted candles, through the country.

Though population is dreadfully overcrowded in this City of New-York, there is room here for three times the number of residents we now have,—there is abundant room for three millions of people on the Island of Manhattan. Look at the thousands of petty little houses on all our main thoroughfares,—on Bowery, Second and Third avenues, Sixth, Seventh and Eighth avenues, as well as on the greater part of the cross streets. Look at the mean two-story houses and three-story houses, where there ought to be strong, roomy houses, five or six stories in height. If all these places were torn down, and if the City were properly built up, we should be able to give proper accommodation for all the growth of the next century. While, on the one hand, rents would be moderated, capitalists and property holders, on the other hand, would obtain safer, steadier and more satisfactory returns, and the prosperity of the City would be in every way greatly enlarged. The countless numbers of mean houses now to be found in nearly all parts of the City owe their existence in great part to the speculative mania. People with small means get hold of a piece of property and then sit down and "wait for a rise;" people with large means buy up hundreds of pieces of property, and either put them up at fancy prices with the determination to hold them till they reach the prices or refuse to sell on any terms. They are all waiting for the "rise" which is to come with the growth of the City, while at the same time they retard the very growth by the terms on which they hold their property. Thus the City is damaged, and thus the people, as a whole, are permanent losers for the temporary advantage of a small and short-sighted class.

There are some people in Virginia who have not had enough of fighting,—as appears by the two scrimmages which took place at Petersburg yesterday, and which resulted in the breaking up of the Republican State Convention. The fights, however, were between two factions of the Republican Party,—the Welles men and the anti-Welles men; and, so far, nobody seems to have been hurt, very badly. Peace, dear old Virginia! "let us have peace!"

Refined Sugars have been reduced fully two cents per pound from the highest figures made during the recent speculative rise. Best crushed and granulated sugar (Stuart's) is now quoted at eighteen cents cash per pound, in lots of twenty packages and upward. Grocers "about town" will please make a note of this, and give their customers the benefit of the reaction.

If the delegations of patriotic and distinguished people who desire to "interview" President Grant will only postpone their visits for a time, we have no doubt they will be cheerfully welcomed. But, for a few months to come, Grant will be very busy, and will be very much worn out by his imperative duties—which are facts that ought to be borne in mind by his numerous friends and admirers.

Yesterday the House again voted directly for the repeal of the Tenure-of-Office bill—only 16 names being given on the minority side. The question was also up again in the Senate, but Mr. Sumner again compelled its postponement.

The number and the kind of complaints that have been made by prominent citizens against the gas companies of this City during the Legislative investigation that has been going on, give but small indication of what the people have been compelled to suffer from some of these companies. Yet complainants have testified to overcharging, extortion, petty tyranny and downright swindling. The testimony of Judge Daly was altogether amazing, though unfortunately not exceptional. When any user of gas has attempted to obtain redress from the company, he has been promptly met with the threat of turning off his gas, if he did not accede to the terms inflicted upon him. Of course this brought most people even Judge Daly himself, to submission. But we really wish the Legislature, now that the facts are soon to be laid before it, would invent some means of protecting the public rights in this matter.

The Administration of Lincoln—Four years' war of arms. The Administration of Johnson—Four years' war of words. The Administration of Grant—Let us have peace.

The price of gold wavers hither and thither in response to reports from Washington about Secretary Stewart. A report favorable to Stewart sends it down a point or more; a report adverse to Stewart sends it up again. When, toward the close of February, the price of gold broke from 135-6, it went down pretty steadily till the time of Stewart's nomination, on which day it all but touched 130, and promised to keep moving downward. But its course was stopped by the difficulty about his taking office; and, with the fluctuating reports, it has fluctuated irregularly at a short distance above these figures. The speculators manage to make a good many "turns" as it rises and falls.

Rebels have a short shrift in Mexico. In the two last revolts—Negrete's and the Yucatan—we are told "the ringleaders who were captured were all shot." The dispatch adds that the Government is "quite sanguine" regarding these revolts. Doesn't it mean quite sanguinary?

We are given to understand that the oldest and most persistent professional politicians and office-seekers declare the story that Mr. Wilson, of Iowa, and Mr. Boutwell, of Massachusetts, were offered places in the Cabinet, and refused them, to be unquestionably without foundation. They say they never heard of such conduct. S. says it is contrary to human nature, and G. says it is incredible. S. declares that he would not do as Boutwell and Wilson are alleged to have done. G. says that it is his uniform rule never to decline office before it is offered—still less to decline it after. Here we have the practice and principle of S. and G. against the mere stories regarding Messrs. Wilson and Boutwell. Is there any doubt about the rumors?

A Petty Fraud Stopped.

The Common Council has adopted a resolution directing the Comptroller to withhold the pay of certain inspectors of Belgian Pavement appointed by the Croton Board. It was stated by Mr. Gibney, who offered the resolution, that it referred to two inspectors only, one of whom received $2,500 per annum and the other $2,200—the regular salary of an Inspector of Pavements being but $3 per day. Further, it appears that the two inspectors in question were appointed some time ago to superintend the laying of the Broadway pavement, and that they have been drawing their salaries during the entire Winter, when, of course, no paving has been done, and when they could have no duties to perform. The pay of these inspectors comes out of the pocket of the contractor, and it certainly seems unfair that one contractor should be required to pay $2,500 a year for the same work which another gets done for $1,500. The Croton Board, it is said, is empowered to designate the amount of compensation which shall be paid its employes. If so, it should at least see that the compensation is equalized. It is intimated that, in these two cases, the extra compensation does not go into the pockets of the inspectors, but into those of certain other persons.

NEW-HAMPSHIRE.

The Republican Candidate for Governor Elected by 3,000 Majority—The Entire Republican Congressional Delegation Elected.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

CONCORD, N. H., Tuesday, March 9.

Returns received here at the headquarters of both parties indicate that the election in this State to-day has been the most quiet that has been known in New-Hampshire for many years. There appears to have been but very little, if any, excitement anywhere, and generally a small vote has been thrown.

The Republicans have elected by good majorities the full State ticket, headed by Hon. ONSLOW STEARNS for Governor, and SAMUEL D. QUARLES, of Ossipee, for Railroad Commissioner.

The three Republican members of Congress, JACOB H. ELA, of the First District; AARON F. STEVENS, of the Second District, and JACOB BENTON, of the Third District, are all reëlected, and the Republicans have a majority in both branches of the Legislature. This is at present claimed to be two in the Senate, which is composed of twelve members, and about sixty in the House. Mr. STEARNS' majority will be about 4,000. Governor HARRIMAN's, last year, was 2,493.

This evening the Republicans have been parading the streets of Concord and rejoicing over their victory in the customary manner. The newly-elected Governor was called upon, and induced to make a speech. In this he said the victory of the day was a "reaffirmation of New-Hampshire's attachment to republican principles, and of her determination to stand by President GRANT in his declared purpose of introducing economy, retrenchment and reform into every department of the Government. As New-Hampshire was the first formally to present the name of General GRANT to the nation, it is fitting that her people should send him greeting by the indorsement of his Administration."

Associated Press Dispatch.

CONCORD, N. H., Tuesday, March 9.

The returns from the State election show a smaller vote than in November, but indicate an increased Republican majority over March last, when HARRIMAN was elected Governor by about 2,500 majority. The election to-day of ONSLOW STEARNS, Republican, for Governor, over JOHN BEDEL, Democrat, is perhaps secured by 3,000 majority; also, a full Republican delegation to Congress and a large majority of the State Legislature.

Dover gives STEARNS 924; BEDEL, 444—a Republican gain of 105.

Manchester—STEARNS, 1,703; BEDEL, 1,322—a Republican gain of 150.

Portsmouth—STEARNS, 1,114; BEDEL, 862—a Republican gain of 192. Portsmouth elects eight Republicans to the Legislature and two Democrats. Among the Republicans elected is FRANK H. MILLER, editor of the Portsmouth Chronicle.

Returns from all portions of the State show Republican gains over last year.

JOHN H. BAILEY, Republican, is elected to the Senate in the First District over FRANK JONES, by 150 majority.

Concord gives STEARNS 1,504; BEDEL, 895—a Republican gain of 192.

Nashua—STEARNS, 998; BEDEL, 757—a Republican gain of 101.

Sixty-six towns show a Republican gain of over 500 since last year.

The Governor elect, Mr. STEARNS, was called on to-night by a large crowd, and responded as follows:

MY NEIGHBORS AND FRIENDS: I thank you for this visit and heartily reciprocate your congratulations on the victory this day achieved. It is no more my victory than it is the verdict of the people, uninfluenced by excitement and unswayed by politicians; a reaffirmation of New-Hampshire's attachment to republican principles, and of her determination to stand by President GRANT in his declared purposes of introducing economy, retrenchment and reform into every department of the Government. As New-Hampshire was the first to formally present the name of General GRANT to the nation, it is fitting that her people should send as a greeting the first indorsement of his Administration. I am glad to see you always, gentlemen; I am especially glad to see you now. Again thanking you for the honor of this visit, I wish you good night.

The Republicans have elected eight of the twelve Senators, and a majority in the House of Representatives of about sixty.

One hundred and sixteen towns give STEARNS 21,896; BEDEL, 18,713—a Republican gain on the vote last Spring of 900. The Republicans have carried seven of the ten counties.

Another dispatch says: STEARNS will have about 4,000 majority. All the Congressmen are reëlected. S. D. QUARLES, Republican, is elected Railroad Commissioner. Merrimack County has gone Republican.

STATESMAN OFFICE,
CONCORD, N. H., March 9—11 P. M.

One hundred and twenty towns give STEARNS 23,432; BEDEL, 20,100; probable majority for STEARNS, 3,500.

SPAIN.

Stormy Debate in the Constituent Cortes.

MADRID, Tuesday, March 9.

There was a stormy debate during the session of the Constituent Cortes yesterday. The Republican members made bitter attacks upon the Ministry for their alleged monarchical proclivities. They demanded that the Duke of Montpensier be divested of his rank of Marshal of Spain, and accused the Provisional Government of endeavoring to smuggle him into the country for the purpose of placing him upon the throne.

General PRIM replied that the Duke could not with justice be deprived of his title of Marshal.

Admiral TOPETE, the Minister of the Marine, amid great excitement, declared that a Kingdom with MONTPENSIER on the throne was preferable to a Republic.

Marshal SERRANO made a calm and dignified speech, defending the Provisional Government from the attacks of the Republicans, asserting the sovereign authority of the Cortes, and insisting that the determination of a form of government for Spain and the choice of her future ruler should be left to the Constituent Cortes alone. He deprecated the violent pressure brought to bear upon the Cortes by the Republican Party as impolitic and unfair.

In the course of the session Señor FIGUEROLA, Minister of Finance, expressed himself in favor of free trade, and advocated immediate but gradual reform in the Customs by the adoption of a compromise tariff.

MEXICO.

Frequent Executions—General Negrete in Concealment.

HAVANA, Tuesday, March 9.

Telegrams from the City of Mexico, dated the 3d inst., have been received here by the Vera Cruz steamer, and contain the following news:

Executions had become frequent in the country, and created general public dismay. On Monday, the 5th of March, President JUAREZ forbid them, and ordered officers to bring their prisoners to the capital for trial.

It was rumored that a man named MAYER, late of the United States army, had been shot, but it has since been ascertained that he was sent to Mexico to be tried.

General NEGRETE had not been found. It is hinted that his defeat was not so complete as reported.

Señor ROMERO writes to a friend that the opposition, after fomenting rebellion, now clamor for a change in the Ministry; their motives are ignoble, and as they represent only a minority of the nation, the President heeds them not.

ESCOBEDO had defeated the bandit CANALES in the Tamaulipas.

The rebel bands in other quarters had also been routed.

The Virginia Republican State Convention—A Regular Row.

PETERSBURG, Va., Tuesday, March 9.

The Republican State Convention met at noon to-day, at Tucker's Hall. An anti-Wells man was attempted to be declared temporary Chairman, when the Wells men resisted, and a general fight ensued around the Chairman's stand. A strong Police force interfered and separated the combatants. Mr. BURGESS, the Mayor of the City, appeared and made a speech in behalf of peace. The rival candidate for the temporary Chairmanship followed, advocating peace. Another fight ensued, and the Mayor ordered the Police to clear the hall, which was done.

After the stormy scenes this morning it was announced by the Mayor that the Convention would assemble at the African Church. In a short time the delegates were collected and disorderly scenes renewed, but the Mayor gave personal supervision with a strong police force to the organization, which was effected after much excitement, JENKINS, a Welles man, being chosen temporary Chairman. The Convention then adjourned till 10 o'clock to-night. During the session to-day a telegram was received from Governor BULLOCK, of Georgia, asking for harmonious action and the renomination of Governor WELLES.

The Convention reassembled at 10 o'clock this evening, but the Committee on Credentials not being ready to report it adjourned until to-morrow.

It is very evident that WELLS will be nominated to-morrow, and is conceded that HENRY C. TAYLOR, of Montgomery, will be selected for Lieutenant-Governor.

The friends of CLEMENTS have to-night drawn up a protest against the action of the Mayor of Petersburg, and calling for a new Convention, but the matter later in the night was abandoned.

ALBANY.

The Tenure-of-Office Bill—Soldiers' Monument—Security to Ferry Passengers—Increase of Notaries—The Fifteenth Amendment, &c.

From Our Own Correspondent.

ALBANY, Tuesday, March 9, 1869.

The Legislature reassembled this morning, after a ten days' vacation, with a pretty full attendance in both Houses. The Assembly, immediately after the roll-call, resumed the consideration of the report of the Committee on Federal Relations, which was pending when the House last adjourned, recommending the repeal by Congress of the Tenure-of-Office act. The last half of the report, asking our Senators in Congress to vote for the repeal, having been adopted before the adjournment, the remainder of the report indorsing the necessity of the law at the time it was enacted, was put upon its passage without discussion, and adopted by a strict party vote.

SOLDIERS' MONUMENT.

Among the bills passed to a third reading was one authorizing the Supervisors of New-York, whenever they shall be requested by the Commissioners of the Central Park, to appropriate a sum not exceeding $30,000 for the erection of a Soldiers' Monument in the Park, the money to be expended under the direction of the Central Park Commissioners, together with Hon. JOHN FOX, A. B. THORPE and Mayor HALL. The bill was introduced by Mr. MURPHY, of New-York.

SECURITY TO FERRY PASSENGERS.

Mr. WOLTMAN, of New-York, will to-morrow introduce a bill requiring all the New-York ferry companies to erect sliding or lifting gates on the bridges or passage-ways leading to ferry-boats, which shall be closed before any boat leaves the slip, and remain closed until the arrival of another boat.

IN THE SENATE

Mr. GENET introduced a bill to increase the number of Notaries for New-York City—adding 250 to the present number.

Senator MURPHY introduced a bill requiring the Police Commissioners to furnish patrolmen to do duty at the Criminal Courts in New-York City.

The session of the Senate was mainly occupied in the discussion of the bill to repeal the contract system for canal repairs. Mr. MORGAN opposed the repeal, and denounced the bill as a Democratic measure designed to enlarge the power and patronage of the present Canal Board.

Mr. HALE attempted to get his bill for the punishment of bribery moved, out of its order, to the Committee of the Whole, but failed for want of a two-thirds vote. The bill was reported favorably the day after it was introduced, and will be reached in due time among the general orders.

The Committee appointed last year, of which Senator HALE is Chairman, to investigate the alleged corruption in connection with the Erie Railroad legislation of last session, will present their report to-morrow.

THE CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT.

The question of ratifying the Fifteenth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States, recently passed by Congress, will probably come up in the Legislature to-morrow. The Democrats will oppose it violently and unanimously. They would even go to the extent of the Indiana Democrats and resign in a body and go home, provided they could thereby defeat the amendment. But they can't. Fortunately the Constitution of this State (article 2, section 10) provides that a majority of the members of the Legislature shall constitute a quorum to do business; and still more fortunately there is at present a Republican majority in each House. All the Democracy can do therefore will be to protest, and let off gassy speeches against negro suffrage for home consumption. This poor privilege they will doubtless indulge in to a large extent. S.

GEORGIA.

The Recent Republican State Convention—The Resolutions Adopted—Denunciation of the Action of the State Legislature—Congress Asked to Call the Entire Legislature Together—A Military Government Not Desired—Hearty Indorsement of the New Administration and of the Fifteenth Amendment.

The Georgia Republican State Convention, held in Atlanta on the 5th inst., pursuant to a call issued by Hon. FOSTER BLODGETT, Chairman of the Republican State Central Committee, contained two hundred and thirty-eight delegates, representing one hundred and four counties. Hon. BENJAMIN CONLEY, President of the State Senate, presided, and Mr. BLODGETT was Chairman of the Committee on Resolutions. This Committee made the following report, which was unanimously adopted by a rising vote:

Whereas, In times of great public peril it is eminently wise and proper that the people should assemble together to devise means for their own relief; and

Whereas, Through the usurpations of an unlawfully-organized body, claiming to be the General Assembly of Georgia, the personal, civil and political rights, and the liberties and property of the loyal masses, are in the hands and at the mercy of their most unrelenting and unscrupulous enemies; and

Whereas, The loss of life by Republicans who have fallen by the hands of violence in this State within the last year is frightful, and the fact that it remains unredressed before the Courts of the country is disgraceful to civilization; and

Whereas, The loyal people throughout this State have assembled in their respective counties and selected delegates to represent them on this occasion; and

Whereas, We, their delegates, so selected and here assembled, are fully satisfied that the gross outrages to which we and those we represent have been and are now being subjected, are instigated and perpetrated on account of our loyalty to the Government of the United States, our adherence to the principles of the Union Republican Party, and the earnest support which we have given to the reconstruction policy of Congress; and

Whereas, By reason of the usurpation of the unlawfully organized General Assembly of this State we are denied and debarred from such representation therein, as would secure the enactment of laws for our protection in the enjoyment and the exercise of the privileges guaranteed to us by the Constitution, and are compelled to call upon the Congress, and the President of the nation, to secure to us by appropriate legislation, and the faithful execution thereof, those rights, privileges and immunities so dear to the American citizen; and, to the end that our grievances and our desires shall neither be misrepresented by the few who, for selfish purposes, have assumed to speak for us, nor misconstrued by the great mass of the rebels, who are opposed to us, we, the representatives of the loyal element of our body politic—the Union Republican Party of Georgia—now in Convention assembled, do hereby most solemnly declare:

1. That we have cheerfully contributed our time, our labor and our property, at the risk of our lives, to carry out successfully the reconstruction policy of Congress—believing that thereby we would secure for ourselves, our wives and our children, the blessings of personal and political liberty, and equal civil and political right, guarded and protected by a State Government under the control of loyal men.

2. That we regard as the two great fundamental objects of the Congressional policy of reconstruction—first, the exclusion from office, and consequent exclusion from political power, of a certain class of those who had been engaged in rebellion against the United States, and, second, the full enfranchisement of the colored race, thereby increasing the strength of the loyal element of the body politic.

3. That the action of the organization known as the General Assembly of this State, whereby a large number of members who had sworn to support the Constitution of the United States, and afterward gave "aid or comfort" to its enemies, were allowed to retain seats in that body in violation and defiance of the act of Congress fixing the terms upon which the State should be restored to representation, was not only illegal and a willful failure to comply with those terms, but was a flagrant nullification of one of the fundamental objects of the whole reconstruction policy of Congress.

4. That the said General Assembly has exercised the power thus unlawfully acquired to expel from their body a large number of members in violation of the Constitution, upon the pretext of their ineligibility on account of color, and to seat in their places an equal number of those who oppose the Government, and have thus violated the other fundamental object of the reconstruction policy of Congress.

5. That as evidence of this action having been taken under a mere pretext, we have the universal denunciation of the new Constitution by the entire rebel-Democratic Press and all the Democratic speakers of the State, at the time it was submitted to the people for adoption, which denunciation was based on the ground that the new Constitution secured to the negro every right, privilege and immunity enjoyed by the white man.

6. That the State Government of Georgia is now practically as completely under the control of those who spurn the Government of the United States, and the policy of Congress, as it was during the rebellion, or during the years 1865 and 1866; and the State cannot therefore be recognized as either legally or actually reconstructed.

7. That these evils do not arise from any failure on the part of Congress in the enactment of its laws, but are directly attributable to the peculiar manner in which a compliance with those laws was evaded; and we, therefore, earnestly and urgently ask that Congress will provide for a rigid enforcement thereof, under the authority of the United States, by a reassembling of the persons elected to the General Assembly in April last, and the exclusion from the organization of those who are ineligible under the law.

8. That we do not desire, as falsely charged by our enemies, but, on the contrary, are totally opposed to the remanding of our State to military government, and only ask such interference by the United States Government as may be necessary to a thorough and liberal execution of that portion of the Reconstruction acts which should control the organization of the General Assembly.

9. That with such a legislative body as was then elected, and would be thus organized, laws would be executed that would secure protection for the humblest citizen of the State, whether white or colored, in his person, his property, and in the expression of Union or Republican sentiments, and the freedom to vote for the candidate of his choice, unmolested by the rebel Democratic rowdies who are now sanctioned and sustained by the responsible and respectable men of their party.

10. That the only peaceful remedy for the evils which have resulted from the numerous acts of usurpation of the present unlawful organization known as the General Assembly of Georgia, is to be found in the action of the Congress of the United States, whereby we hope and believe that the action of said General Assembly and its defiant and rebellious course will be rebuked, its organization disbanded, and its usurpations rendered void, thereby vindicating the wisdom and efficiency of the Congressional policy of Reconstruction, and deterring the rebellious spirit which still exists in the South, from a similar attempt to overthrow that policy in this or any other of the late rebel States.

11. That when the Reconstruction acts of Congress shall have been fully complied with, and Georgia shall have been recognized as a State in the Union, we will demand for her every right now guaranteed to other States in the Union, and would deprecate any act of Congress looking to the control of the affairs of any one State, that would not equally apply to all the States.

12. That we return thanks to Almighty God for the last great victory over the rebellion which has been so lately achieved at the ballot-box in the election to the Presidency of the Nation of General ULYSSES S. GRANT, and to the Vice-Presidency, of Hon. SCHUYLER COLFAX, whose patriotic services, political principles and public pledges give ample guarantee that they will execute the will of the loyal people of the United States, as represented by the laws of Congress; that we heartily indorse the admirable Inauguration Address of President GRANT, and pledge his Administration an earnest and honest support, having abiding faith in the patriotism and the statesmanship of its fearless chief.

13. That we repose the same confidence in the Forty-first Congress that we have entertained for its patriotic predecessors. The hopes of the entire Union population of Georgia, in this, their hour of peril, are centered in that body; and should Congress, under any misapprehension of facts, disappoint these hopes, we shall be reluctantly forced to the conclusion that all our sufferings have been in vain, and that there is no abiding place for the friends of liberty or loyalty in our much loved State.

14. That we regard the Fifteenth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States, proposed by a Republican Congress, as a measure of right and justice, and shall recommend its adoption when we have a Legislature that will, in good faith, provide for its enforcement.

15. That we have unbounded confidence in His Excellency, RUFUS B. BULLOCH, Governor of this State, who, while others have quailed before the storm of ostracism, persecution and abuse, has on all occasions been true to himself, true to loyalty, and true to the whole country; and we only indorse and approve the course of His Excellency in inviting the attention of Congress to the unlawful organization and revolutionary action of the body known as the General Assembly of Georgia; and we pledge ourselves to the hearty support of his administration in the future as in the past.

On motion of J. R. W. JOHNSTON, the following was adopted:

Resolved, That Hon. FOSTER BLODGETT, Colonel P. M. SHEIBLEY, Hon. H. P. FARROW, Hon. J. W. CLIFT, J. M. SIMMS, J. T. COSTIN and H. M. TURNER, are hereby appointed a Committee to present copies of the proceedings of this Convention to the President and Vice-President of the United States, to the Speaker of the House of Representatives, Chairman of the Reconstruction Committee of the House of Representatives, Chairman of the Judiciary Committee of the Senate, and to both Houses of Congress, and to urge upon the members thereof the adoption of such measures as shall carry out the desires of this Convention, in securing to the people of this State a legal and loyal Legislature, thereby restoring Georgia to an equal position with the loyal States of the Union.

On motion of Hon. FOSTER BLODGETT, it was

Resolved, That the proceedings of this Convention be published in the American Union, Atlanta New Era, Augusta Press, and such other papers of this State as are willing to give to their readers the views and feelings of their fellow-citizens; and that the Washington Chronicle, New-York Tribune, NEW-YORK TIMES, Cincinnati Gazette, and all other loyal papers, be requested to give our views to the loyal people of the United States, by publishing our proceedings.

On motion, the Convention adjourned sine die, with cheers for President GRANT.

The New-York Times.

From the Derby (Conn.) Transcript.

We publish in another column the prospectus of the NEW-YORK TIMES. We are under no obligation to add anything, but we take just occasion to record our convictions, early and recent, of this paper, and say what we say as an honest tribute to what we have for years considered, as one of the first, if not the first, paper that comes out of New-York. Ever since the days of the old Courier and Inquirer, we have had our eye on its editor. He is a man of the most lively and vigorous intellect, and step by step he has forced himself into prominence, first in metropolitan and then in national politics, until, much as it has been the fashion since the days of Mr. LINCOLN to try and lessen his influence in certain quarters, he has vindicated his own position and stands there in spite of self-interest or detraction.

But our sense of the power and usefulness of the man, is in the position he has sought to assume, since the appearance on the stage of that strange, able, yet bull-headed gentleman, A. J., the Executive. It has been the fashion to represent Mr. RAYMOND as hostile to, or at least not heartily with, the Republican Party. Because he would not indorse the mad radicalism that for years has been seeking to destroy it, and it would have done so but for the immense popularity of GRANT, on whom it has been compelled to fix, and so save its own life nolens volens, he has been looked on with pretended suspicion. Each refusal to indorse measures blindfold, and each attempt to hold Republican leaders to law and common sense, has been in like manner treated. "On both sides," cry some. Now each such declaration is only proof either of malice or stupidity, since the whole course of Mr. RAYMOND is easily explained by allowing to him that independence of judgment that will not submit itself to insane partisanship, but will think for itself. The cast of his mind is conservative, not radical—that is, he recognizes the absolute necessity of the restraining elements of society in our politics—and consequently he cannot honestly consent to see great principles, in themselves just, emptied of all their worth by being pushed to extremes.

It has been and is our humble opinion that a Press like his in New-York—that is, moderate, or independently Republican—fills a place more than eminent for its advantages to the nation. It is not reckless, like the Herald, nor has it the truculent benevolence of the Tribune, nor the astounding patriotism of the World, or the audacity of the Democrat; but it is a paper of dignity, ability and power, conservative in its tone, yet sufficiently ready to advance when convinced its foot is firm; courteous, polished, astute and keen, and we feel confident does, and will long continue to, set a firm grasp on the best intelligence of our times.

THE TENURE-OF-OFFICE BILL.—Our advices from Washington lead us to believe that the Tenure-of-Office law will be unconditionally repealed. It is barely possible that this may be true only of so much as relates to Cabinet officers, and that it will be permitted that the removal of all others may be submitted to the Senate without an assignment of reasons, but it looks as though the repeal will be total.—Hartford Courant, March 9.

AMUSEMENTS.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC.

The favorite opera of "Crispino è la Comare" will be given here to-night for the first time this season. The leading soprano rôle is one of the best played by Miss KELLOGG, and is in fact entirely associated with her name. The house will undoubtedly be crowded to its greatest capacity.

WALLACK'S THEATRE.

"Much Ado About Nothing" is drawing rapidly to a close. It will be withdrawn after the present week, to give place to Mr. ROBERTSON'S new play of "School." The cast last evening was restored to its original complexion, and the performance was witnessed by a large and enthusiastic audience.

IRVING HALL.

Mr. BASSFORD, we are glad to say, has recovered from his accident and will positively appear at his concert this evening.

Note from Mr. Brougham.

NEW-YORK, Tuesday, March 9, 1869.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

I take the earliest opportunity of endeavoring to remove an erroneous impression, which I fear might be formed from the article in your Sunday issue, wherein it is suggested that a portion of the description contained in the bill of "Much Ado About a Merchant of Venice," had an individual significance.

I beg most distinctly to state that I had no such intention, and trust that I shall never be guilty of so much bad taste as to indulge in personalities prejudicial to any one, reprehensible at all times, but especially so in a public representation.

Obediently yours,
JOHN BROUGHAM.

National Stock Exchange.

About 300 members of this Association were present yesterday at the meeting held at No. 54 Broad-street. It was decided that the first Board shall be opened on Thursday next, at 10 o'clock, and the first call shall be at 12 M. The report of the Committee on the list of stocks and order of calling was read.

A speech by Mr. FISK was applauded, and Erie was put on the list. The stock list was then approved and much business transacted, the only noticeable points being the fixing of the entrance fee at $100 till 600 members are enrolled, at $250 after till 700 are on the books, and on that number being attained an increase not to exceed $750 will be imposed on every new member. It was also settled to pay Mr. E. R. TREMAIN, Second Vice-President, $5,000 per annum, the Secretary, Mr. C. M. DELMAR, $3,000, and the Assistant Secretary $1,500, payable monthly; the other officers are unsalaried. Other unimportant amendments were carried, and the meeting adjourned about 5 o'clock.

It is stated that the present number of members is 420, that 300 applications for membership are now under consideration, and the Board is confident that before long the number of members will be very great. The regulations contained in the constitution and by-laws of the new Exchange are identical with those which have governed the New-York Stock Exchange, with the exception that greater stress is laid upon the obligation of members not to make fictitious sales of stocks or bonds, upon which point the language of the Constitution is as follows:

"No fictitious sales shall be made by any member of the Board, and any member contravening this article shall, upon conviction, be suspended for a term not less than one week or more than sixty days, at the discretion of the presiding officer."

Sale of Paintings.

A sale of paintings took place last night at H. D. MINER & BARKER'S Fine Art Gallery, No. 845 Broadway. The pieces were all first-class, comprising the entire collection of landscapes, fruit and flower pieces by WM. M. BROWN; also, a private collection of cabinet pictures by other eminent American artists, including "Love's Melancholy," by CONSTANT MAYER. The attendance was large, and the bidding spirited. BROWN appeared to be the favorite. "Peaches," a small painting by him, brought $137 50; "Group of Flowers," $65; "Study of Watermelon and other Fruit," $150; "Flowers, Fruit and Vase Composition," $190. By A. F. TAIT were the following: "Wood Scene with Deer," $122 50; "The Barn Yard," $117 50. CONSTANT MAYER'S great picture, entitled "Loves Melancholy," excited a lively competition, and was knocked down to a Mr. WILSON for $1,000. This is the original picture from which the chromo was made by Messrs. GURNEY & SON, of this City. Several pictures by BROWN and others brought sums ranging from $60 to $90. The sale opened with J. R. GIFFORD'S "Windsor Castle," which brought $23. The lowest price sold for during the evening was $6, for a little piece of BROWN'S, entitled "View near Coney Island."

Objects of the Founders of Massachusetts—A Lecture by Rev. G. E. Ellis.

A lecture was given by Rev. GEO. E. ELLIS, D. D., of Massachusetts, last evening before the New-York Historical Society. He said that the historian PALFREY and all other persons that had written on the subject, appeared to be of the opinion that the founders of the Colony of Massachusetts had sought therein a refuge where they could enjoy liberty of conscience. This was a most erroneous idea. Liberty of conscience, as the phrase was generally understood, was their bugbear, the one thing of all others they most dreaded. Liberty of conscience was just then beginning to make itself felt in their native land, and from it and the evils which they imagined it would eventually produce they fled into voluntary exile. The lecturer contrasted the statement of PALFREY as to the objects of the Colonists with that of Governor WINTHROP. The latter said that the intention was to found a colony governed by due laws both civil and ecclesiastical. This showed precisely what their object was, which was neither more nor less than to found a Biblical commonwealth—one regulated by the precepts of the Bible, as the old Jewish communities were by the laws laid down for their guidance in the Old Testament. The Colonists' first code of laws was founded entirely on Bible precepts, and each clause was illustrated by Scriptural texts. In everything they endeavored to conform to Biblical precepts—in their dress, in their manners and in their intercourse with their neighbors. Viewing the Massachusetts Colonists in this light, much, he said, in their conduct that had heretofore appeared inexplicable might be accounted for. The second lecture on this subject will be delivered by Mr. ELLIS on Thursday next.

Accident on the Erie Railway.

A serious accident occurred on the Erie Railway yesterday, a few miles this side of Schlosburg Depot, Orange County, by which three persons were injured. A train of construction cars, laden with old rails, was rounding a curve as the Cincinnati express passed. At the same moment some of the old rails became disarranged and were thrown with considerable velocity into the smoking car, striking three gentlemen pretty severely. Mr. W. A. SMITH, of Damascus, Penn., received a fracture of the right hip, and is now at the Western Hotel, Cortlandt-street. Mr. WALTER BUCKLEY got a severe blow on the jaw, which knocked out all the front teeth. He was, however, enabled to proceed to his home at Tremont Centre, N. Y. The other sufferer's name is not known; he received no very serious injury. The car was full of passengers, who deemed themselves exceedingly fortunate in escaping without injury.

Aid for Cuba.

The society of Cuban ladies who meet on Tuesdays and Thursdays at No. 139 West Twentieth-street, held one of their usual gatherings yesterday, but no time or place was set for the fair that has been for some time in contemplation. A small addition to their funds was reported as received within a few days. Advices received by them from Cuba lead them to doubt all reports of Spanish successes. They appear to feel confident of the success of the insurgents. Another society of Cuban ladies, meeting frequently at the St. Julien Hotel for the same purpose, gave a concert last night at Steinway Hall, which was well attended. The tickets were $5 for a gentleman and lady, and brought a considerable accession to the funds of the Society.

President Grant and the New-Jersey Legislature.

In the House of Assembly of New-Jersey, yesterday, Mr. SHEPPARD, Republican, offered the following, relating to President GRANT:

Whereas, The greatest of American soldiers having been honored with the Presidency of the nation; therefore

Resolved, That this Legislature congratulate the soldiers of the country, and especially those of New-Jersey, in having their chosen leader at the head of the nation, and that we consider it a just and proper reward for their self-sacrificing devotion in the maintenance of a free Government.

On motion of Mr. CLARK, the resolution was referred to the Committee on Federal Relations by a vote of 29 to 23.

Arrest of a Foreign Criminal.

A day or two ago a cable dispatch was received from Bremen at the Central Station, asking the arrest of a man named HERMAN NEWPERT, charged with embezzling goods to the amount of $10,000 from G. C. BRUCKER, of Leipsic. The dispatch stated that NEWPERT had sailed on the 25th of February on the steamship New-York. On the arrival of that vessel yesterday Detectives ELDER and IRVING arrested the man NEWPERT and brought him to the Central Station. The ship's manifest shows that he has on board thirteen boxes of cigars, pipes, &c. As this case does not come under the provisions of the Extradition Treaty, he will be discharged upon restitution of the goods.

Freaks of a Madman.

A madman in Sussex County amused himself last week by shooting at his father and brothers, using for the purpose a double shot gun. He had the whole family locked up in a room, and aimed within a few inches of their heads, but threatened to kill them if they stirred. Not content with frightening his own family, he fired a shot at a neighbor who came to see what was the matter. On the second day he ate some salt beef, and then drank some whisky, the result of which was intoxication, during which he was seized. He has been sent to the Lunatic Asylum at Trenton.

Specie Payments.

A Committee appointed by the Newark Board of Trade have made a report on the resumption of specie payments to the effect that it was not expedient to fix a time for resumption, and it would be better to have a gradual process tending to that end. The matter was discussed at the last meeting of the Board, but no conclusion arrived at.

The Printers' Strike.

The journeymen book and job printers on strike felicitated themselves at their meeting yesterday at Botanic Hall, upon the fact that DAVIES & KENT, one of the employing firms hitherto opposed to recognizing the Typographical Union, had finally agreed to do so, also to pay the advanced scale of prices demanded by the Union.

The Two Leading Hotels in Boston.

"On the 1st instant, there was a change in the proprietorship of two of the principal hotels in Boston. Mr. WM. BINGHAM retired, and Mr. GARDNER WETHERBEE, for many years connected with the Fifth-avenue Hotel of this City, purchased his interest. There will be no change in the management of the Tremont House, but at the Revere, where Mr. WETHERBEE will make his headquarters, there will be many important improvements, in the way of the introduction of hot and cold water bathing rooms and suites of apartments. For more than twenty years, the Revere House has stood at the head of the first-class houses of the country. Under the new firm its high character will be fully sustained."—New-York Express, March 6.

Hecker & Brother's

"SELF-RAISING FLOUR! The attention of the public is solicited to a most important improvement in the manufacture of our "SELF-RAISING FLOUR." For a long time we have been engaged in a series of experiments with a view of improving the quality of the SELF-RAISING FLOUR, and have now succeeded in producing an article in every way superior to anything we have heretofore been able to offer the public. We herewith give Professor SEELY'S opinion of our new method:

NEW-YORK, Feb. 17, 1869.

MESSRS. HECKER & BROTHER: I have recently made myself familiar with the various materials and methods heretofore used in the manufacture of Self-raising Flour, with a view of determining the relative value of the new process adopted by you, and have come to the following conclusions: 1st. The process is entirely new. The desirableness of the active materials employed has for a long time been appreciated, but until now the practical difficulties encountered in their use have proved insuperable. 2d. The process is a very substantial improvement over anything of the kind hitherto used or known; indeed, I believe it fully meets all the reasonable requirements of science and of the public.

CHARLES A. SEELY.
Laboratory and Office, No. 26 Pine-st.

We have been engaged in the manufacture of SELF-RAISING FLOUR for nearly twenty years, and consider this late improvement the most important we have ever made. For some time past we have been preparing all of our SELF-RAISING FLOUR in accordance with this new process.

When our success was assured we called the attention of many of our most scientific men, eminent chemists and physiologists to our improvement, and we now have the privilege of referring to all those who, as yet, have become acquainted with the improved Flour, to substantiate all that has been said in reference to our new method.

REAL ESTATE TRANSACTIONS.

A quiet day yesterday, and a very noticeable falling off from Monday. The attendance at the salesrooms was moderately good, but the congregation of lookers-on was much greater than the congregation of bidders, and the enthusiasm which has characterized the sales of some weeks past was decidedly lacking. This may, perhaps, be accounted for to a moderate degree, by the fact that there were no lots offered which were particularly desirable to speculators. Of that class but very few were present, and they took no active part in the transactions of the day, but seemed to be present rather from force of habit than from any interest they had in what was going on.

The most valuable property was sold by Messrs. E. H. LUDLOW & Co., but the bidding was very slow and dull, and the auctioneer hesitated after selling two or three lots, being scarcely certain whether it would be profitable for him to go on with the sale. One lot on the northwest corner of Forty-fifth-street and Madison-avenue, 25.5x95, sold for $19,000. Three lots on Madison-avenue, north of and adjoining the above, sold for $14,000 each. One lot corner of Madison-avenue and Forty-sixth-street, by many considered more valuable than the lot on the lower corner, sold for $18,500, and one lot 25x100.5 on the north side of Forty-fifth street, and 95 feet west of Madison-avenue, sold for $13,250. Considering the prices of last week, these were all extremely low. The six lots sold by Messrs. BLEECKER & Co., on the south side of Sixty-second-street, east of Fourth-avenue, and each 25x100, brought $37,200; considering the market, a good price. Several other bits of property were sold by this firm, but they were scattered and not of particular interest. The Brooklyn and Flatbush property held its own better than the City property. The lots were principally bought by persons who proposed occupying them, who came prepared to pay a fair price, and who went away quite content with their purchases.

It is scarcely fair to suppose that the dull sales of yesterday indicate any immediate and serious change in the Real Estate Market. The old operators, it is true, prophecy a speedy decline in prices, but from the time the excitement commenced they have, month after month, uttered the same prophecies, and have as regularly been mistaken, yet all agree, both young and old, that the market is now as high as it will be, and the most sanguine only believe that it will be able to hold its own. The coming months are very trying ones, and if the market holds steady through them, then New-York property may justly be considered to have acquired an established value, which it now certainly has not.

The market to-day, like that of yesterday, is more attractive to those desiring to purchase for investment, than to speculators. Several bits of property of the kind usually purchased by persons who desire to buy, build residences and occupy them, and who do not propose paying extravagant prices, will be presented.

The Inwood property, offered by Messrs. BLEECKER & Co., is quite desirable. It is delightfully located in Westchester County, but a short distance from Macomb's Dam, and the views from it are as commanding as any on this well-known tract. It lies on Central-avenue, joining West Morrisania, on Gerard, Walton and Inwood avenues, and on the old Macomb's Dam road. The Central-avenue is to be widened thirty-four feet and a row of trees are to be set out on each side from the Harlem River to Jerome Park. The work will be commenced as soon as the frost permits. Gas pipes, it is understood, will be laid along the route as the work progresses. This property will be sold at the Exchange Salesroom, and not on the premises as seems to be by many believed. The same firm will offer a farm in New-Jersey, located at Secaucus, on the Hackensack River and the line of the Northern Railroad of New-Jersey.

Mr. JAMES M. MILLER will sell eight valuable lots of ground on the south side of Fifty-eighth-street, west of Eighth-avenue. Also, to close an estate, several desirable improved and unimproved parcels of property in Melrose.

Messrs. WYCKOFF & LITTLE will sell several nicely-located pieces of property in Brooklyn. Two lots, southeast corner of Myrtle-avenue and Hamilton-street, as desirable corner lots as have been offered lately. Two on the south side of Myrtle-avenue, east of Hamilton-street. On the property is a dwelling-house, modern build, and with all the improvements. Also other property on Myrtle-avenue, Hamilton and Ryerson streets, and three lots corner of Greene-avenue and Cumberland-street.

Messrs. E. H. LUDLOW & Co. will offer the four-story brown-stone house and lot No. 314 East Fifteenth-street; two three-story basement and sub-cellar brick houses, Nos. 665 and 667 Second-avenue; the lot with buildings thereon, No. 197 West-street, southeast corner of Jay, and running through to Caroline-street; and other City property. Also, twenty-eight lots in Paterson, N. J., comprising the entire block bounded by Madison, Beach, Morton, and Essex streets.

Mr. WILLIAM KENNELLY will sell two lots on Sixty-third-street, between the Boulevard and Central Park; nine lots on north side of Eighty-ninth-street, west of Eighth-avenue; five lots on south side of Ninetieth-street, west of Eighth-avenue; and three four-story brick buildings on west side of Eleventh-avenue, north of Eighth-avenue.

Other scattered pieces of property will be presented, and although there are no sales of grand plots, yet the little pieces scattered all over the City cannot fail to draw a good attendance.

WILL SELL ON

MONDAY, MARCH 15,

AT 12 O'CLOCK, AT EXCHANGE SALESROOM, NO. 111 BROADWAY,

FORTY-EIGHT PARCELS OF LAND,

CONTAINING ABOUT

ONE HUNDRED AND EIGHTY-ONE LOTS,

ESTATE OF LEWIS G. MORRIS.

This is the only property on the line of Central-av. having direct communication with the RAILROADS. Fine streets are already opened leading to the HORSE AND STEAM CARS. It is the only property in this vicinity that will not require GRADING OR CLEARING AWAY for building purposes, and is entirely free from trees, rocks, shrubbery and other nuisances, which in some localities cost so much to remove.

Persons desirous of visiting the property can take the horse or steam cars (which run at all hours) to Tremont, thence to Central-av., about five minutes' walk from the cars on a well-regulated road; or it may be reached by carriage through the Central Park and Central-avenue Boulevard, the most complete and magnificent carriage and equestrian drives in the world. A man will be found at Heincel's Hotel, adjoining the property, to give such information as may be desired in regard to the property.

which is one of the broadest and finest avenues in the world for the general characteristics of dimensions, locality and the beauty of surrounding and adjoining scenery. It is to have an addition of fourteen feet walk on each side, divided from the carriage and bridle drive by rows of beautiful trees; the contract for grading the sidewalks is now being carried out. For descriptive pamphlets, (containing maps and diagrams,) and further particulars, apply to the auctioneer,

EUROPEAN NEWS BY MAIL.

ARRIVAL OF THE STEAMSHIP NEW-YORK.

The steamship New-York, from Bremen Feb. 20 and Southampton Feb. 23, reached this port yesterday. Her advices are later by two days than those already at hand. We give below the full report of the very interesting debate in the Belgian Senate on the proposed transfer of Belgian railways to French holders, which has created so much excitement throughout Europe.

FRANCE AND BELGIUM.

The Transfer of Belgian Railways to France—Full Account of the Recent Debate in the Belgian Senate.

From the Avenir National, Feb. 21.

A great crowd flocked to the Senate House early in the day, and the public galleries were soon taken by storm. The Corps Diplomatique was au grand complet, and a great number of the members of the Lower House were also present. The debate was commenced by M. MALON, one of the leaders of the Catholic party, now in opposition. He plunged at once in medias res. He began by laying down that it was the bounden duty of every country to evince a feeling of good will toward its neighbors. The community of interests and ideas entailed great and important duties on Belgium as regards France. Belgium owed a great deal to France, who had, as it were, founded the Belgian nationality, and whose army had generously interfered to retrieve the mistakes committed by the Revolutionary war. He alluded specially to the march of the French army which had protected Belgium in 1831 against the consequences of the loss of the battle of Louvain. Neither should it be forgotten that in 1832 Antwerp, the only spot retained by the Dutch, was wrested from them by the French. Between Belgium and France the most that could arise was a cloud, a misunderstanding, which it was easy to dispel. Respecting the case now in point, it was sufficient to explain that the Railway bill affected an exclusively Belgian interest, and related to a line which for twenty years past had been worked under the unquestioned control of the State. That which was now done in a direct manner had been done in an indirect manner under former Ministries. His (M. MALON'S) evidence on the point was not open to suspicion—he belonged to the Opposition, and he had no objection in admitting that it was his interest to catch the Ministry tripping. But he must confess that in this instance the Ministry had done no more than he should himself have done; nay, what he done himself, when in office. The honorable gentleman gave instances of cases where the Government had refused to sanction concessions of Belgian railways to English and French companies, and when its refusal had not given rise to any protest, and concluded by demanding explanations respecting the future relations between railways and the State.

Marquis DE RODES (Opposition) warmly supported the bill.

M. FRERE ORBAN, Minister of Finance, then rose and said: I cannot depart from the reserve which I deemed requisite in the other House, but I feel compelled to notice the attacks which have been leveled against the Government. The bill now before you has caused an unaccountable excitement in France. If it had been attacked only by a few organs of the French Press, papers which are daily urging the annexation of Belgium, I should remain silent, but it must be acknowledged that the first impression even on minds well disposed toward us was unfavorable—and that impression we must not disregard. We are bound to give an explanation. I will admit in all sincerity that the bringing forward of the bill, its being referred to a special committee, the debate and the precipitate vote—well, all that must have made some impression on people abroad. They wondered what was the reason for this precipitancy. Well, gentlemen, that things should have been thus hurried was no fault of ours, and we cannot be reproached with any breach of propriety. How did matters really stand? For three months past the cession of the Luxemburg Railway had been a leading topic of discussion throughout Belgium; the excitement was so great that in the other House a member of the Opposition put a question to the Government. The Government replied that the cession would not in any case be permitted. What was then the state of things abroad? In France, except the parties interested, no one paid the slightest heed to the question, and the French papers barely noticed the facts, and no one dreamt of a protest. It is, perhaps, not to be wondered at that, in the ignorance of what preceded, the bringing forward of the bill should have caused some excitement. It is unfortunate, under such circumstances, to be charged with a mark of ill-will toward France. But no one protested against our declaration, and two months later, when we carry it into effect by a law, there is an explosion of excitement and irritation. The accusation has been unblushingly brought against us of acting under the pressure of a foreign Government; of forgetting our duty and disregarding our interest, of wantonly offending France for the sake of obeying the behests of Prussia. I do not know M. DE BISMARCK—I only saw him once in this very city, in the crowd which thronged the streets when he accompanied the King of Prussia. I only know him by his acts. Will any one believe that he is the sort of a man to sneak shamefully behind us, in order to prompt us to annoy France? I cannot say, but what I do say, and what I know, is that if Prussia ever harbored the design of making us the instruments of her private spite, she would get from us a very categorical answer. The part Belgium has to play is written down in treaties. She must be neutral and equally kindly disposed toward all other Powers. That part which is in strict conformity with her duty and her interests she has scrupulously performed. Every ministry that has held office since 1830 has pursued that policy. For twenty years past I have been mixed up with politics and have never swerved from that programme—and let me candidly ask you why I should act otherwise toward France, to whom we owe so much. Our relations have ever been most friendly. Of course I do not allude to the first impulse of distrust we all felt when we witnessed the revival of the Empire which had been so fatal to us in times gone by. But ever since there has been no cause of difference between us. We should not hold ourselves guiltless if we did aught that could justify legitimate susceptibilities. At any rate that is not the case now. What are the facts? A company which works a Luxemburg railway notifies its intention to transfer it to the French Chemin de Fer de l'Est. We proclaim that we mean to take up the working of the lines ourselves. A commission is appointed, the line inspected, &c. All of a sudden, on the 5th December last, we are coolly told within three days the cession will be accomplished. And, gentlemen, the thing was done in spite of our protests. From the 1st of November to the 5th of December no communication whatever was made to the Government. It has been stated that I was averse to buying back the line. All I said was that it was no trifle, but I expressed no opinion on the matter one way or another. Thus on the 8th of December we were, like the bulk of the public, taken by surprise by the announcement that a provisional treaty for the cession of the line had been concluded. We directed our Minister at Paris to inform the directors of the Eastern Company that we persisted in our opposition. Not a word is vouchsafed in reply; but on the 30th of December the provisional contract became definitive, and yet people affect to be surprised that this bill should have been brought forward, though the Eastern Company might have taken possession of the Luxemburg Railway! It became urgent to act, and to act prompty. If in France the Eastern Railway wished to cede its lines to a foreign company—if the French Government intimated its intention of buying it back, and declared that it would not approve the cession—if under these circumstances the foreign company had disregarded the veto of the French Government, what would the French Government have done? This way of putting it decides the question. What is just and right in the one case must be just and right in the other. What the French Government would have done we are beyond controversy entitled to. A member of the House of Representatives, quoting a newspaper, has alleged, that in 1864 the Government expressed, respecting the rights of the State in the matter of railways, an opinion diametrically at variance with the principles of the bill. Now, that quotation is simply a shameless falsification. The bill only proclaims an unquestionable right of the State, and attaches a penalty to the infringement of that right. All the countries around us have rights far more extensive than our own. Thus the law of Aug. 12, 1859, in Holland is far more rigorous than the bill before you. [After a brief reply to some observations of M. MALON of a purely technical character the Minister went on.] The bill has been received as we hoped it would. Belgian interests are at stake which soar far above our political differences. I trust the Senate will vote this bill as the Chamber of Representatives has done. [Sensation—great applause.]

M. D'HOFFSCHMIDT, (former Minister for Foreign Affairs,) as a Luxemburgher, begged to give his cordial support to the bill.

M. D'ANETHAN, (former Minister of Justice,) without stooping to notice the absurd attacks of the French Government Press, thought the bill decided a question which should have been left to the law courts. He would not vote for or against the bill.

M. BARE (Minister of Justice) thought M. D'ANETHAN'S law was as unsound as his facts were unreal.

M. PIRORLY withdrew the amendment he had brought forward, and

The bill was carried by thirty-six votes, seven members abstaining from voting. There was some applause, and the sitting came to an end amid great excitement.

A PARISIAN SCANDAL.

A Marriage Annulled by the Courts in Consequence of Deceit and "Fraudulent Manœuvres."

Paris (Feb. 19) Correspondence of the Morning Herald.

The Civil Tribunal of the Seine yesterday gave judgment in an extraordinary case. It was a suit brought by the heirs of Mme. STERN, with a view to have the marriage of that lady, now deceased, with M. OTTO STERN, declared null and void, so as to prevent his inheriting the fortune of his late wife, to which he was entitled under their marriage settlement (contrat de mariage.) Mme. STERN was the daughter of a well-known and highly-respected merchant in Paris, M. AVRIAL. He died in June, 1848, while engaged with the National Guard in fighting the insurgents during the great Socialist rising in that memorable year. Mademoiselle AVRIAL was not born in wedlock. Her father had formed a liaison with her mother; they had lived five years as man and wife, but it was a faux menage, though the world did not suspect, and they were never regularly married. In 1862 the so-called Madame AVRIAL went to Dieppe for the Summer, and there fell in with M. OTTO STERN, who lived in a very fast and dashing style in that fastest of watering-places. Whether it be true, as alleged by the plaintiffs, that M. OTTO STERN deluded the fond but too credulous mother, by falsely giving himself out to be a banker in London, with a fortune of £40,000, and a yearly income of about £8,000, is not clearly made out. The allegation is denied by his counsel, but somehow or other M. STERN managed to convince Mme. AVRIAL, as we shall call her by courtesy, that he was a most desirable son-in-law, while his winning manners and stylish appearance made a most favorable impression on the daughter, then in the full enjoyment of the graces and inexperience of 18. He proposed and was accepted, subject to inquiries to be made in London as to the reality of his position. Unfortunately, the young lady's brother was selected for this delicate business; he was very young and very inexperienced, and M. OTTO STERN, the plaintiffs allege, had no difficulty in the world in throwing dust in the young fellow's eyes and twisting him round his finger. The marriage contract was duly drawn up. M. STERN set down his own fortune, consisting of his house of business in London, estimated as worth about £30,000. Mlle. AVRAIL'S fortune consisted in £8,000 in hard cash and good securities. At the eleventh hour, just as the marriage was about to be solemnised, toward the end of December, 1862, certain awkward rumors reached the ears of the AVRIAL family. M. STERN had represented himself as a bachelor, as never having been married before. At the last moment it was ascertained that he had been married in England. Notice was given to the Procureur Imperial in Paris, and M. STERN was within an ace of being arrested on a charge of bigamy. An exchange of telegrams took place on the subject between Paris and London, whereon M. STERN at length admitted that he had married in England one MARY RIDLEY, but that he had been lawfully divorced, and in addition he produced a certificate from the Russian Consul-General in Paris certifying that there was no Russian law to prevent divorced Protestants from marrying again. One would have thought that common prudence would have induced the young lady's mother at least to delay the marriage; but both mother and daughter seem to have been infatuated, and the nuptial ceremony was performed in Paris on Christmas-eve, 1862. Now, it appears from the statement of the plaintiff's counsel M. STERN was neither a banker nor a man of fortune. From the certificate of his birth his name appears to have been, not Edouard Otto de Stern, but Edward Moses Stern, without the de, and that he was the son of a small Jew banker, at Mittau, in Courland. In 1854 he had to leave his native country, owing to a debt of 556 roubles; and as he left without special leave he could not return thither without special license. He went to England, and earned his living as copying clerk in a merchant's office, and it was then he made the acquaintance of MARY RIDLEY. She had a little fortune of about £2,000, and he married her in 1856 at Newcastle. He soon got through her fortune, and ill-used her to the extent that she obtained a decree nisi for a divorce on the ground of cruelty and adultery. The decree is dated March, 1862. Such, according to the plaintiff's counsel, were the defendant's antecedents. His conduct towards his new wife, Mlle. AVRIAL, was quite in keeping with them. On the day after the wedding he took his wife over to London, and instead of introducing his wife to the splendid comforts of an English merchant prince, he made her acquainted with the shabby dreariness of furnished lodgings. After a little time he went back to Paris and realized all his wife's property that was not absolutely tied up. Details of their married life were given in evidence, which it is not necessary to dwell on; suffice it to say that it was very unhappy, and that the unworthy husband introduced fashionable young men to his wife with the obvious intention of putting her in harm's way. She brought a suit for divorce against him, but it seems to have been abandoned owing to the difficulties arising out of her legal status. A French woman by birth, she has become a Russian by marriage, and the French law does not recognize divorce. Actions and cross-actions seem to have been instituted before the French tribunals. M. STERN having returned from America at the close of the war, the last action instituted by Mme. STERN for nullity of marriage was followed soon after by her death. She had left all her money to M. MIRES in trust for the benefit of her brothers, but her husband claimed it under the marriage contract. No witnesses being examined in these civil actions, it is not always easy to make out the exact truth amid the exaggerations of the speeches of counsel. But the main facts seem to be beyond dispute—that after treating his wife very badly and running away to America for four years, he claimed all his rights (to her money rather than her person.) The Crown Advocate (he always intervenes in France even in civil cases) summed up dead against the defendant, not on the technical ground of the illegality of the marriage, but on the moral ground that he had obtained her hand solely through fraud and misrepresentation. The Court in its judgment, pronounced the marriage null and void on the ground of the deceit "and fraudulent manœurres" practiced by the defendant. So that M. STERN'S grief at the loss of Mdlle. AVRIAL will not be mitigated by the possession of her fortune—which had been largely increased by inheritance during the period of his desertion.

THE CALLAHAN MURDER.

Inquest by Coroner Keenan—Hilpert Committed for the Murder of the Woman.

On Monday morning we gave the details of a shocking affair which had occurred on Scavenger Hill, in the shanty of JOHN HILPERT, in which a woman named ELIZA CALLAHAN appeared to have been most brutally murdered. The promptitude of Captain HELME in arresting HILPERT and his son JOSEPH and in taking possession of the shanty and its contents, and also in questioning the occupants of the neighboring hovels, was of the utmost value in the investigation of the bloody affair, and materially lightened the subsequent labors of Coroner KEENAN. Dr. WOOSTER BEACH having made a post-mortem examination of the mangled corpse on Sunday afternoon, it was removed to the Morgue, at Bellevue Hospital, to which place the inquest was adjourned. In accordance with the announced arrangements, Coroner KEENAN yesterday morning impaneled a jury, when the following testimony was taken:

Margaret May, who resided in the next shanty, was sworn and testified: I was acquainted with deceased and the prisoner; between 5 and 6 o'clock on Sunday morning last, the prisoner's son, a little boy, knocked at the window and called out that Eliza was dead; I and my husband got out of bed and dressed ourselves; my husband, after dressing himself, went and opened the door; the prisoner then came into our house, and also said that Eliza was dead, and asked "for God's sake come over and see her;" we then went over to the prisoner's house, and there, "all crumpled up" near the bed and against the wall, lay the deceased, partly on her side; her body was between a table and the bed; there were marks and blood on her face, and behind her head, and touching it was a bottle on which was smeared blood and hair; the bottle was frozen to the floor; I also saw a broomstick, half of which was broken off (the part found was here shown and identified); this was also smeared with blood; Hilpert, the prisoner, told me to sweep out the floor, so that it would not look so bad if any one came to see her; out in the passage-way I saw a rough stick of wood, which was smeared with blood, and to which was still adhering hair; there was some straw scattered over the floor, the bed being all upside down; near the bedstead, on the floor, was a large spot of blood; before I swept the floor, I arranged the bed-clothes, when my husband and the prisoner put the deceased on the bed; nobody washed anything, the floor or any of the stains of blood; prisoner asked me to wash the deceased's face; I refused; prisoner then asked my husband to wash her face, and he did so; as we all entered the prisoner's house, the first time that morning, he told us that when he got up he found deceased on the floor outside the bed; he called her to make a fire, but she not answering he took hold of her arm and he then found that she was dead; the little boy told us that she came home late last night, and when she came into the passage she fell down; she called to him, and he went out and brought her in; I and my husband went to bed about six o'clock the night before, but heard no noise during the night in the house of the deceased; at three o'clock on Saturday afternoon I saw her and she was intoxicated; she was in the habit of getting drunk three or four times a week; the prisoner also drinks to excess; when they were intoxicated they usually beat each other; they were not married, but lived with each other as man and wife; we can hear every word that is spoken in the house occupied by the prisoner; there is no relationship between myself and the prisoner.

Joseph Hilpert, aged 11 years, and a son of the accused, being examined, testified: At 7 o'clock I came home from Mr. May's house; my father was in bed fast asleep; Eliza (the deceased) was sitting by the window on a chair; she was scolding and talking to herself, she then went out; I asked her where she was going and she said she was going behind the house; it was 11 o'clock when she returned; I heard her in the storehouse; I got up and went out; I saw by the moonlight she was all blood, with the hair down over her face; I took hold of her arm, when she got on her knees and crawled in and up near the bed; I woke up my father, who put her into the bed; she did not remain in the bed, however, but jumped out and lay down on the floor; I and father then went to sleep; in the morning when I woke up my father was looking for his coat, which he found and put on; my father then asked Eliza to get up and make a fire, but found she was dead.

The witness was critically examined by Coroner KEENAN, but adhered closely to his text, notwithstanding it involved him in such palpable absurdities as stating that he saw blood upon the woman's face by the light of the moon, upon a night when there was no moon. The Coroner was so strongly impressed with the untruthfulness of his testimony that he subsequently expressed his doubts of its trustworthiness to the jury.

CATHARINE VESCHTER, Officer ROONEY and Captain HELME, of the Thirty-first Precinct, were then examined, but their testimony did not include any important facts not already in evidence. Dr. WOOSTER BEACH then gave the medical testimony of the case, concluding that the woman had died from violence causing fatal cerebral injuries.

After this testimony had been submitted, the jury promptly rendered a verdict that the deceased, "ELIZA CALLAHAN, had come to her death by injuries at the hands of JOHN HILPERT, on the 7th day of March, 1869, in Sixty-sixth-street, between Eighth and Ninth avenues." The prisoner being then arraigned, in answer to the questions of the Coroner, stated that he is a native of Germany, 44 years of age, and a night scavenger by occupation. Being asked if he had anything to say relative to the charge preferred against him, he said he was not guilty. He was then fully committed to the Tombs to await the action of the Grand Jury. The prisoner did not manifest any emotion upon the rendition of this verdict, which he seemed to have anticipated.

Velocipede Matters.

Mr. J. G. PANGBURN, an enterprising young man, infected with the velocipede fever, appreciating the necessity for a bicycle riding-school in the lower part of the City, where business men, in their intervals of leisure, can drop in and enjoy a half hour's ride, yesterday opened to the public a commodious velocipede hall at No. 141 Fulton-street. This is convenient to the crowds of young men who "do business" in Broadway and Nassau streets. Mr. PANGBURN has secured a sufficient number of excellent machines, of the Wood and Pickering varieties, to accommodate all who may desire to avail themselves of them. Yesterday his hall was thronged with visitors, including a number of expert riders, and a goodly number of the shining lights from the City Hall Chambers. One or two of the City Fathers essayed the management of the bicycle, but while they could not equal the expertness of HANLAN, PEARSALL or Professor BRADY, they showed an aptitude for twisting and turning which will soon enable them to ride this peculiarly Democratic means of locomotion with ease, especially as there is supposed "to be money in it." The opening of the new school was highly successful, and at the close of the day Mr. PANGBURN looked upon a goodly array of names of individuals who had volunteered to become his pupils.

On Thursday night PEARSALL BROS. will give an exhibition at their rooms, Broadway and Twenty-second-street, of the new machine manufactured by them, and of which they hold the patent. This machine is so entirely different from any other in use that none of the patents, about which there is so much contention, affect them in the least. The wheels are of the same size, and the saddle is so placed between the two that the weight of the body is thrown equally upon each. Instead of the pendant bar to support the forward wheel, the Pearsall machine is made with substantial rods running from the centre to the hub of each wheel, forming the axles. These rods are connected in the centre by a small gearing, which is attached to the guide bar in such manner that the hind wheel must inevitably track the forward wheel. By this combination the machine will turn, at the greatest speed, in a circle, the diameter of which is less than the length of the machine. The saddle, in whatever position the machine may be in, always remains perpendicular to the front wheel. The whole vehicle, provided with break, shield—all complete—weighs between forty and fifty pounds. This machine, having been most thoroughly tested in PEARSALL'S riding-school, he has entered upon the manufacture of them, and on Monday received his first dozen of them. A number of his pupils have become expert in managing this new velocipede, and on Thursday night will give an exhibition for the purpose of displaying its peculiar advantages, on which occasion manufacturers and experts will pronounce such judgment upon it as shall either make it very popular, or condemn it to oblivion.

There is to be a trial of the hill-climbing qualities of several velocipedes, in Brooklyn, some fine afternoon this week. The contesting machines will be those known as the Pickering, Pearsall, Dexter and Demorest.

Stabbing Affray.

An affray took place in Jersey City last evening, among some men at the corner of Montgomery and Washington streets, Jersey City, during which a German peddler named CHARLES BLISS, aged nineteen, stabbed a man named BENJAMIN F. WEST in the side. WEST was severely wounded, and was taken to his home, No. 75 Mercer-street. BLISS says the wound was inflicted accidentally, and that he and his friend were merely skylarking. He was arrested and lodged in jail for examination.

LOCAL NEWS IN BRIEF.

Yesterday morning a barrel containing kerosene and other ingredients] exploded in the dying-house of PROSPER AUBREY, No. 24 East Fourth-street, as it was being placed in hot water for the purpose of generating gas. The explosion forced out the rear windws and frames, doing a damage of $200. No person was injured in the factory, but the glass window of the school-room attached to St. Bartholomew Church was broken, and SOPHIA WOODALL, one of the pupils, residing at No. 200 Delancey-street, was struck by the fragments and slightly cut.

Coroner KEENAN yesterday held an inquest at Bellevue Hospital on the body of PETER WARD, a native of Ireland, 45 years of age, and a resident of Newburg, who died from the effects of injuries incurred by a fall from a Hudson River Railroad car on the 16th of February. A verdict of accidental death was rendered.

An exhibition of the Stereophantasmoscope was given at the Cooper Institute, last evening, to a very crowded audience. The photographs, brilliantly illuminated by the oxyhydrogen light, included a large number of scenes along the lines of the Pacific Railroad, Salt Lake City, Rocky Mountains, &c., and were described in detail by Professor WORCESTER and Mr. RUSSELL.

The Charles-street United Presbyterian Church was filled last evening, to listen to a lecture by Mr. DE CORDOVA, on "Courtship and Marriage," for the benefit of the Sabbath School. The lecturer was in his happiest mood, and the audience manifested their pleasure by frequent applause.

The meeting of officers of the army and navy who served during the war in the Department of the Gulf, to be held this evening at 7:30 o'clock, at Delmonico's, in Fourteenth-street, will doubtless be largely attended. About 7 o'clock last evening MARGARET MURRAY, 22 years of age, living at No. 30 Ridge-street, in a fit of temporary insanity jumped from a ferry boat into the river at the foot of Houston-street. She was rescued by the deck hands and brought to the Central Station, where she was properly taken care of.

About 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon WILLIAM MOONEY was flying his kite from the roof of No. 60 Mulberry-street, a five-story building, and fell to the ground. He broke two ribs and his right arm. The funeral of the late Rev. Dr. GILLETTE, Secretary of the Protestant Episcopal Freedman's Mission, took place at the Church of Holy Trinity yesterday. The services were conducted by Bishop LITTLEJOHN, assisted by Rev. Dr. HALL, of Holy Trinity, and Rev. Dr. HAIGHT, of New-York. Rev. Dr. CANFIELD read a series of resolutions expressive of the sympathy of the clergy toward the family of the departed. When the services were concluded the remains were removed to Green-Wood Cemetery, where they were placed in a receiving vault. Revs. Drs. HAIGHT, A. H. VINTON, CANFIELD, SCHENCK, WASHBURNE, and HALL were appointed a committee to raise funds for the benefit of Dr. GILLETTE'S family.

Rev. Dr. SCHENCK, Rector of St. Anne's Church, has purchased the house on the southwest corner of Pierrepont and Henry streets, formerly occupied by Ex-Naval Officer HENDERSON, with furniture and appointments, for $60,000.

The Consulting Board of Engineers of the East River Bridge Company met at the office in the Union Building yesterday. The subject under discussion was the durability of timber immersed in sea water. Cases were cited to show that piles and squared timbers had lasted from 500 to 1,500 years, and that in a few cases where destruction from decay had taken place earlier, it was known to have proceeded from elements of decay existing in the wood before immersion, a danger which could be guarded against.

A negro woman who lived in the BERGEN family at Brushville, L. I., died yesterday, aged according to the belief of those who knew her best, 115 years, leaving a daughter living in the same house aged 80. Her death, it is supposed, was hastened by grief at the death of Mr. LUKE BERGEN, (with whom she resided,) who was buried on Friday last, having lived a bachelor to the age of 70. LUKE'S brother, Mr. SCHENCK BERGEN, was buried on Monday, having lived to the age of 80, and his death is also supposed to have been hastened by grief. A sister remains in the house at Brushville, aged 65, and another sister resides in Brooklyn who has reached the age of 90.

Mr. E. H. HALL, of New-York, delivered a lecture on "Interior China," in the chapel of the Packer Institute, last evening, to a large and attentive audience. The lecturer defended the Chinese people against the frequent charges of exclusiveism made upon them by the people of other nations, and he concluded by setting forth that the Burlingame Embassy and the treaty offered to the nations of the earth meant progress.

The hall of the house No. 282 Raymond-street was entered last evening by a sneak thief, who stole two overcoats of the value of $60. The coatless victims put in an appearance at Police Headquarters after 9 o'clock, and told their grief to Detective FROST.

New-Jersey.

Between 9 and 10 o'clock on Monday night the residence of Mayor BRINKERHOFF, on Palisade-avenue, Bergen City, was entered by burglars and robbed of nearly $900 worth of property, mostly in jewelry. The thieves forced an entrance through a second story window over the piazza, and making their way to Mr. BRINKERHOFF'S sleeping apartment, opened a bureau drawer by cutting away the woodwork around the lock. From this they took a set of coral jewelry, with diamonds valued at $250; an onyx set of jewelry, worth $50; a diamond pin, worth $200; various small trinkets, together with a velvet cloak, worth $150, and a couple of sable muffs, worth $40. The robbery was discovered soon after it was perpetrated, and the Police being notified, officers were dispatched to watch the ferries and railroads, but no clue to the robbers could be discovered.

In the Hudson County Court of Sessions, yesterday, JAMES and EDWARD FOLEY, charged with having been concerned in a forged will, whose case was tried the present term, (the jury disagreeing,) were admitted to bail by Judge RANDOLPH in $1,000 each to appear for a new trial at the May term.... COLLIER upon false pretences, pleaded not guilty, and was released upon his own recognizance to answer at the next term of Court.... RICHARD KANOUSE was tried on an indictment charging him with having stolen two horses from the Jersey City and Bergen Railroad Company, and was acquitted.... JOHN and AMELIA GRAHAM, two parties of respectable appearance, were indicted for having stolen a piano and other articles, the property of Mrs. H. J. TATTERSALL. Mrs. TATTERSALL was the second wife of Mr. H. J. TATTERSALL, a gentleman who had lived in South Fourth-street, Jersey City, but who died last Fall. Shortly after his death his relict left the house, and placed her goods in charge of a Mrs. RICHARDSON, who rented one of the apartments. While under the charge of Mrs. RICHARDSON, a bogus Sheriff's officer seized the goods as the property of Mr. and Mrs. GRAHAM, to whose residence the property was taken. By means of a writ of replevin the goods were subsequently seized by the Sheriff. The defence was that Mr. GRAHAM was an adopted child of Mr. TATTERSALL, and that a Mrs. OLIVER, sister to his first wife, had given the piano and other articles stolen as presents to Mrs. GRAHAM. The result was not ascertained.
